PRESS AND TRIBUNE.

MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 17, 1859.

Missouri State Bonds.

The constitutional amendment limiting the State debt of Missouri to $30,000,000, has passed the State Senate by the heavy vote of 50 to 5. Missouri 6's have declined 2½ per cent. since the rumor circulated some days since adverse to this action—the quotation on Saturday being 84½.

Annexation.

The area embraced within the corporate limits of Chicago will comfortably contain half a million of population. But the Dyer Charter proposes to annex something less than one third of Cook county to it.

The point of the joke is, that consent of the people to be "taken in" and taxed has not been obtained; nor have the modest gentlemen condescended to ask the citizens of Chicago whether they desired to extend the boundaries of the city over the neighboring townships. We would suggest as an amendment that the corporate jurisdiction of this city be extended over the Second Congressional District.

Let no pent up Utica contract our powers—the whole boundless prairies are ours.

Authors of the Lecompton Charter.

The Lecompton Charter owes its paternity, it is said, to Tom Dyer, H. W. Zimmerman, Elihu Granger and the editor of the Times. There were two or three other broken down hacks of like ilk partially let into the secret. But the character of the document was carefully suppressed from every respectable, tax paying Democrat in the city. It was not intended to operate for the benefit of the tax paying class of citizens, but for the professional tax eaters. It was hatched out in midnight conclave, unknown to the people. Neither Democrats nor Republicans were consulted nor permitted to know anything about it. When cooked up to the satisfaction of the conspirators, it was slipped down to Springfield with the hope of making it a party measure and rushing it through both Houses by brute force.

The Feeling in the City.

The town was in a hubbub of excitement on Saturday, on the subject of the Tom Dyer charter. About forty feet of signatures, in double columns, were appended during the day, to remonstrances to be forwarded to the Legislature. Political differences are entirely disregarded in the general eagerness to strangle the Springfield brat. Several leading Democrats have signed the remonstrance—looking upon the question as one of the last importance to the tax-payers. The Germans and Scandinavians are particularly excited by the Dyer plot, regarding it at the same time as a scheme to double their taxes for the benefit of half a dozen discomfited demagogues, and as an insufferable outrage on popular rights. A call for an indignation meeting would produce a crowd, from both political parties, which no building in the city could contain.

Four Mayors.

Under Tom Dyer's charter the city is to have four Mayors! The present duties of the Mayor are to be performed by three other Mayors, to be called "Commissioners," and all four are to be under pay. The one that retains the name of Mayor is deprived of every particle of executive authority, but is to receive $2,000 per year to support the dignity of the office. The other three Mayors are to attend to the police matters now performed by the Mayor; for which service they will divide between their Honors about $10,000 of taxes, per annum.

The people are graciously permitted to elect the Mayor who has nothing to do; but the other three Mayors are to be appointed, for the reason we suppose that the people are not competent to make proper selections—that is, they might not happen to elect the three patriots who have planned these pleasant nests for themselves.

Agricultural Statistics.

A bill is now before the Legislature of Michigan providing for ascertaining the annual cereal products of that State, and our correspondent at Lansing writes that it is very popular with the members, and will pass without opposition. Ohio and Iowa have each experienced the advantages of such a law, and the people of these States would not be deprived of it for any consideration. It only remains for Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana to follow the example, and as the Legislatures of these States are now in session, we sincerely trust a similar law will be enacted by each before adjourning.

A law of this kind can be executed without throwing any additional expense upon the Treasury. In Ohio and Iowa it is made the duty of the assessors to procure the information wished, and this is done without any material increase of their labors. Let the three States named make a similar provision, and hereafter we shall know by August or September of each year the number of acres of wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, etc., in the Northwestern States. Such knowledge would tend to keep down speculation in grain, and would enable farmers to dispose of their crops without being imposed upon by sharpers.

The Proposed Aggressions on Mexico—Mr. Mason's Bill.

The following are the details of the important bill introduced on Tuesday by Mr. Mason of Virginia, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, authorizing the President of the United States to use the public force of the United States in the cases therein provided:

Whereas, the President of the United States, in the discharge of the duty imposed on him by the Constitution, from time to time to give to Congress information of the state of the Union, and to recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient, has informed Congress that, by reason of the distracted and revolutionary condition of Mexico, of certain of the States of Central America, and occasionally of those in South America, as well the property as the lives and liberties of American citizens, peaceably and carefully within their respective limits, are subjected to lawless violence, or otherwise placed in peril by those claiming to be in authority, and for redress thereof negotiation and remonstrance, in the forms of diplomatic intercourse, are attempted in vain; and it being manifest to Congress that such condition of things in the States aforesaid will continue so long as government is found there in the unsettled and irresponsible condition at present, and at times heretofore tolerated by their people; and it being the indispensable duty of the government of the United States to protect its citizens against lawless violence without the limits of the United States, wherever found on lawful errand; therefore,

Be it enacted, &c., That whenever it shall be made to appear to the President that any citizen or citizens of the United States have been subjected, within the limits of any of the States aforesaid, and without commensurate offence on their part, to any act of force on the part of those claiming to be in authority therein, affecting the life or liberty of such citizens, and the case, in the opinion of the President, demands on his part the interposition hereinafter provided, it shall be lawful for the President to use the land and naval forces of the United States, or such part of them as he may deem requisite, in such way as in his judgment may be most effectual, by force, within the country so offending, to give full and adequate relief and protection to any citizen or citizens of the United States so injured or imperilled, and at his discretion to obtain redress for any wrong so done: Provided, That the President shall report to Congress (if in session, forthwith, or if in recess, at its first meeting thereafter) whatever may be done by him at any time in the execution of this act. And provided further, That as soon as the object shall be obtained in any case where the provisions of this act shall be carried into execution, the land and naval forces so used shall be withdrawn.

Mr. Mason gave notice that he would ask the Senate at an early day to proceed to the consideration of the bill.

Missouri Matters.

St. Louis, Jan. 15.—The Constitutional amendment limiting the State debt, passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 50 to 5.

No action was had on the bill providing for the protection of the border counties against the Kansas banditti.

Mr. Wakeman, a passenger by the Overland Mail, reports that the Mexican boundary commissioners had a trunk containing valuable papers stolen from their travelling conveyance at a short distance this side El Paso.

Meeting of the Board of Lumbermen.

Stock of Lumber on Hand—Sales of the Year, etc.—On Saturday afternoon, a meeting of the Board of Lumbermen was held at the rooms of the Board of Trade, for the purpose of hearing the report of the amount of Lumber on hand sales, etc. Mr. Beebe, Vice President, in the Chair; Mr. Sallisbury, Secretary.

By request, Mr. Hilliard stated the object of the meeting, and read the following statement of the lumber on hand in 1856, 1857, and at the close of the past year:

STOCK OF LUMBER, LATH AND SHINGLES ON HAND JANUARY 15, 1857.

Two years ago the 15th of this month the stock of lumber on hand in this market was as follows:

On motion, it was resolved that the above report be accepted, printed and published.

The meeting then adjourned.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

Twenty-First General Assembly.

Our Springfield mail failed again on Saturday. We suggest that the Post-Office authorities put a four-ox-team on the route. In this way we may be enabled to get the Springfield papers of last Wednesday. We take the following from the correspondence of the Evening Journal:

Springfield, Ill., January 14, 1859.

In the Senate, this morning, among the bills read twice and referred, were the following:

By Mr. Judd—To establish a State Reform School for Juvenile Delinquents.

By Mr. Blodgett—To authorize the sale of the Chicago, St. Paul & Fond du Lac Railroad, and to enable the purchasers thereof to form a corporation.

By Mr. Parks—To supply deficiencies in the appropriation for the Institution of the Deaf and Dumb for the years 1857 and 1858.

A bill for a law providing that judgment on confession by warrant of attorney, shall not be entered until the money demanded shall be actually due, was taken up and passed.

The bill for a law declaring county courts at all times in session for hearing applications of insolvent debtors for discharge, was passed—Mr. Brooks only voting "No."

Bill for a law providing that no person shall be convicted of grand larceny unless the value of property stolen shall exceed twenty dollars, was read twice and ordered to be engrossed.

In the House, Mr. Church presented a memorial of the Illinois State Medical Society, in behalf of the education of Idiots; referred to a Committee on State Institutions.

Mr. Higgins presented a petition for remonstrance against the chartering of a Horse Railroad in Chicago: referred to special Committee consisting of the Cook County Delegation.

Two bills for laws providing that confession of judgment by warrant of attorney, before the money is due, shall be void, have been before the Judiciary Committee, who reported them back this afternoon; one of them was laid on the table, and the Committee's substitute for the other was laid on the table to be printed. The substitute elicited a warm and lively discussion in which Messrs. Blaisdell, Mack, Green, Peck, Butz, and others participated.

Mr. Davis, of Montgomery, introduced a bill for the permanent location of the Illinois State Agricultural and Mechanical Fair. It appropriates $15,000, and appoints Judge S. H. Treat, S. A. Buckmaster, Esq., Gov. William McMurtry, and Mr. Solomon Harkey, agents to lay out the same for the purchase of forty acres of land within one and a half miles of the city of Springfield, and lay out the remainder of said appropriation in fitting up the said land as Fair Grounds for the exhibition during the autumn of 1859. It was read twice and referred.

The Senate bill extending the time for the collection and paying over the revenue in the Township Organization counties, was reported back from the Committee on Finance, and passed.

A lengthy debate occurred in the House this afternoon upon a bill for the relief of the securities of the late Sheriff of McLean County, whose account with the State is deficient about $9,000, for the year 1857, in the course of which Mr. Swett and Mr. Hurlburt, two of the most talented members of the House, "locked horns." Some able speeches were made. Messrs. Hurlburt and Norton opposed the bill upon the ground that it would establish a dangerous precedent. It was ordered to be engrossed.

After having some fun over a bill to change the names of two persons, the House adjourned.

New Counterfeit.

A new and unusually well executed counterfeit three dollar bill on the National Bank of Illinois, at Equality, has just appeared. It is exceedingly well calculated to deceive, and will be likely to prove extensively successful in this region. The plate appears to be one altered from a counterfeit on the National Bank of Rhode Island, and the bill has on it the Rhode Island coat of arms, an anchor.

We are advised that these bills are just issued, and that scarcely any of them can yet be in the hands of honest persons. Any one offering them should be at once arrested, as such a step may lead to a detection of the principals to the attempted fraud in this city.—Springfield Journal, 13th.

The New Apportionment.

The Joint Committee of the Legislature on the new Apportionment, consists of the following members:

Senate.—Messrs. N. B. Judd, of Cook; B. C. Cook, of La Salle; W. C. Goudy, of Fulton; and A. J. Kuykendall, of Johnson.

House.—1st Congressional District—S. A. Hurlbut, of Boone; 2d Dist.—S. L. Baker, of Cook; 3d Dist.—O. F. Harmon, of Vermillion; 4th Dist.—Wm. C. Rice, of Warren; 5th Dist.—L. D. Erwin, of Schuyler; 6th Dist.—Cyrus Epler, of Morgan; 7th Dist.—Thomas Brewer, of Cumberland; 8th Dist.—W. B. Anderson, of Jefferson; 9th Dist.—Thos. S. Hick, of Gallatin. Republicans, 6; Democrats, 7.

The Thorndike Will Case.

Boston, Jan. 14.—B. R. Curtis, one of the counsel for Lieut. Maria, appeared before the Judge of Probate to-day, and asked a postponement of the hearing on account of the engagement of Rufus Choate, his colleague in the case. He also gave notice that the jurisdiction of the court in the matter would be contested on the ground that Mr. Thorndike was not an inhabitant of Massachusetts.

By arrangement of counsel, W. F. Gardner and W. R. Davis are appointed special trustees of the property, pending the legal decision. The satisfactory bonds will be fixed by the court on Monday next. A full hearing of the case is assigned for Friday next.

The Steamer North American.

Portland, Me., Jan. 14.—The Canada steamship North American will not sail for Liverpool to-morrow, as advertised, as it has been found necessary to take her into dry dock to repair the injury she sustained in striking on the rock off Cape Race. It is hoped that she may be got ready to sail on Saturday of next week.

Horace Greeley and the New York Tribune.

New York, Jan. 15.—The Tribune of to-day denies emphatically the truth of the rumor that Mr. Greeley contemplates leaving that paper and connecting himself with another journal.

THE CITY.

☞ Judson T. Hutchinson, one of the brothers of the celebrated Hutchinson Family, died at Lynn, Mass., on the 11th inst.

The Sunday Leader.—An excellent number was out promptly on Saturday evening and going off like hot cakes at No. 100 Dearborn street et al.

"Old Books to Read."—Sherlock has "gone in out of the wet," and is now with his antiquated lore, the occupant of the basement No. 82 Dearborn, where bookworms should hunt him out. Sherlock is the "early bird" and is sure to catch that kind of worm.

☞ Mr. W. F. Packer, who was fined before the Police Court on Thursday last for assaulting his wife, wishes us to say that he had great provocation for committing the act, as will appear before the Police Court next Wednesday, when his wife will be examined, on his complaint, for adultery.

Severe Accident.—A few days since, a gentleman was thrown from his carriage near the Richmond House, producing a compound dislocation of the Astragalus (one of the bones of the ankle). It was successfully reduced by Dr. M. Parker, though it is generally impossible to do so.

The Busch Case.—It is probable, we learn, that on affidavits made by prisoner's counsel, the case of people vs. Busch, indicted for murder, will be continued from the present term of the Circuit Court. It will in that case be placed on the docket of the Court of Common Pleas at the coming trial term in March.

☞ Godey for February is no whit inferior to any of the former issues of this excellent ladies' magazine. The steel engraving in this number is a very fine specimen of the pictures with which Godey presents his readers. For sale by McNally & Co., 81 Dearborn street, who have also Arthur for February, and Friday's New York dailies.

Stealing from the Ruins of a Fire.—John Peterson and John M. Fritz, were arrested Saturday and brought before Justice Akin, on the complaint of the Rev. Dr. Eddy, charged with stealing a boiler, doors, forks, spoons, &c., from the ruins of the late fire on Ontario street, in the North Division. They were held in $500 dollars each to answer before the Recorder.

Offering Counterfeit Money.—Charles Watkins was arrested on Friday and brought to the Armory, on a charge of offering a counterfeit bill in payment for drinks at the "Colosseum Saloon," on Randolph street. The bill was returned to him, and he left. An officer arrested him before he had proceeded many rods, but in the meantime he had thrown the money away. He was fined $50.

Violating the Game Laws.—James B. Whitney and Henry Bruning, were arrested Saturday for violating the game laws, they having in their possession a lot of prairie chickens, which they offered for sale. It was proved that the chickens had been killed since the first day of January, when the game laws went into effect. They were taken before Justice Akin, who fined them $5 each.

The Jumpertz Case.—The trial of Henry Jumpertz, indicted for the murder of Sophie Werner, in this city some months since, best and most widely remembered as the case where the remains of the deceased were found packed in a barrel, which had been shipped to New York, has been set down for trial on Monday of next week. Messrs. Van Buren and McComas appear for the prisoner.

☞ We learn that a few nights since as one of Moores Merchant's Police was passing through Lasalle street, he heard water dripping in the store of H. C. Livingston. Mr. Moore concluding all was not right, learned the proprietor's residence and sent immediately for him, who on coming over found the water pipe had burst in the second story, and in a short time it would have ruined a large stock of flour. Thus by the promptness of Mr. Moore, a few dollars will cover the damage.

Arrested for Adultery.—Dr. William Gullick and Emma E. Packer, were arrested on Friday afternoon and brought before Justice Akin on a charge of adultery. The arrest, we believe, was made on the complaint of the husband, of the lady, who it will be recollected was arrested the day before for an outrageous assault on Mrs. Packer in the street, and also for threatening her life, and was fined $25 on the first charge, and held in $400 on the other. Dr. Gullick was a witness in the threatening case. The parties were held in $300 for examination.

The Reform School for Girls.—We are glad a definite move is being made in a direction long since and often urged in and through our columns, in the matter of a "Reform School for Girls," to which end petitions are now in circulation among our citizens, which we are confident will find sympathizers among our City Fathers. Let the same beneficent plan be adopted for the little homeless, friendless girls of our city that has wrought the noble result among the boys, in the institution now under the charge of Mr. Nichols. Let us have this Asylum and home for the little hapless ones who may be moulded into pests or blessings to their race, according as they be left to the evil influences of the alley and the street, or taken in hand by a wise and liberal Christian philanthropy.

Savage Assault.—A most savage and brutal assault was perpetrated yesterday by A. R. Ladd upon Henry Richmond, at the Metropolitan Hotel. It appeared in evidence before Justice Akin that the parties had previously had some slight misunderstanding. They met yesterday in the bar-room of the Metropolitan, when Ladd threw off his coat and asked Richmond to drink with him, in a pleasant manner. While they were drinking, some words passed, when Ladd struck Richmond a violent blow over the eye with a tumbler, and then "pitched into" him in a savage and brutal manner, trying to gouge out his eye, and also threatening to have his heart's blood. Ladd was seized by the bystanders and given into the hands of the Police. He was taken before Justice Akin, who fined him $25 and required him to give bonds in $200 to keep the peace.

A "Sans Cullotte" on his Travels.—A few evenings since, at a rather late hour, a young man appeared at the door of one of our most respectable citizens, in a decidedly primitive costume, consisting of a single muslin garment, and rung the door bell with great violence. The gentleman of the house appeared at an upper window and demanded to know what the intruder, in his unseemly costume, and at unseemly hour of the night, wished. The response was that he was pursued by several formidable ruffians, who wished to wreak due vengeance upon him for the crime of ruining a young lady who was a relative of his by marriage, and begged of the gentleman to admit him without delay. This was of course refused, as he seemed hardly in a proper costume to be admitted into the presence of a family; but he was referred to the Police Station near at hand. The young gentleman started for the Station, at the top of his speed, greatly frightening a lady whom he overtook on the way, since which nothing has been heard of him. Snakes had evidently taken possession of his boots, and he was endeavoring to escape this hated presence.

The Chicago Athletes at Metropolitan Hall.—We cannot allow an inadvertence of our last issue to be repeated to the extent of omitting the justice due to the Gymnastic Exhibition at Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening, on which occasion, in the presence of a numerous concourse of spectators, the athletes trained under the competent charge of H. G. Ottignon, at his Randolph street Gymnasium, gave an entertainment which was of a very high order of merit and won warm applause.

The (literally) exercises were handsomely and well introduced by a brief, happy and pertinent address appropriate to the occasion by Charles L. Thomas, Esq., which did him high credit in manner and matter.

The gymnastic exercises which followed were each and all an argument in favor of the physical training which in a high degree they exhibited. The performers in astonishing and marvellous feats of agility and strength, were our own young men, clerks, students and young professional men, who had thus gained, under Prof. Ottignon, the sound body—ever an accompaniment to the sound mind—which alone can give to the latter its fullest usefulness. We have a thousand proprietors of puny and weakly thews and sinews, who would be the better for a course at the Gymnasium.

MICHAEL McNAMEE CONVICTED

In the Circuit Court the case of Michael McNamee, on trial for the murder of his wife, in this city, on the 2d of July, 1858, was given to the jury on Friday, about 5 o'clock P. M., the Court adjourning to 8 P. M., to give an opportunity for their discharge, should the jury by that time have agreed upon their verdict.

Long before the hour last named, hundreds of persons were in waiting in the hall of the Court House, and at 8 o'clock the Court room was crowded as during the day, to hear the announcement of the verdict. McNamee is of a higher grade of intellect and feeling than his immediate predecessor, Finn, and with an increase of the anxiety which has sat upon his features during the trial, he awited the verdict to him of such fearful moment. But the jury had not agreed, and after a few moments delay the Court was adjourned to Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

At the opening of the Court on Saturday it was again announced that the jury were unable to agree, and the delay told appreciably upon the hopes and spirits of McNamee and his friends.

The Barry case was proceeded with, the forenoon being occupied with getting a jury.

At the opening of the afternoon session, however, it was made known that they jury were ready for their verdict and McNamee was again brought into Court. The jury entered their seats, were called, and then amid a silence almost painful to the ear, when the spectators and all present held their breath, the little slip of paper was passed from the foreman of the jury to the Clerk of the Court.

It was a moment of powerful sensation when the silence was broken by the verdict of "Guilty of Murder."

The unfortunate convict, McNamee, was powerfully affected, and Barry, his successor in the prisoner's box, on a like fearful charge, seemed scarcely less so. As the former was again conducted to his cell, the strength of both officers in charge was required to sustain his fainting footsteps. He is now the second convicted murderer awaiting sentence in our jail, where three others are awaiting trial on a like charge.

When the first of these trials, that of Michael Finn, came on, the five separate defendants to so grave a charge were, it is said, in the best of spirits, by dint of keeping each other's courage up. The first conviction, now followed immediately by the second, is said to have justly struck gloom into the hearts of those yet to come before this Court.

Singular Case of Poisoning—An Incident worthy to be Remembered.—On Thursday last an incident occurred in a family in this city worthy to be remembered for two very prominent reasons, as the lesson taught should not only convey a warning inducing that caution which will prevent a similar occurrence, but furnishes a cure should the preventive fail. Let all our housekeepers bear in mind the three familar, and two of them domestic articles, which in this instance saved the lives of three interesting children; and let the disaster prove salutary to prevent, by every means, the recurrence of a similar accident.

On Thursday afternoon last, three interesting little ones, children of Col. Hotchkiss, residing at No. 275 South Clinton street, in the West Division, Frank and Fred, twins, aged three years, and Jessie aged two years, were all suddenly taken with violent convulsions.

They had been left at play, alone, in a back parlor, for a few minutes, and were found by their mother in the above condition. Much alarmed, a physician was summoned and simultaneously by different persons, and Drs. Kirk, Hahn, and Reynolds were on the spot in a very short time—the former first arriving. The case was pronounced one of poisoning, and it was found that the children had got access to a drawer in the secretary, they could only have reached by climbing and which was usually kept locked, wherein among a few other drugs and medicines, was found a little vial of strychnine, procured for poisoning rats.

Of this strychnine the children partook, supposing it to be sugar; but its intense bitter taste being discovered, they returned it to the drawer.

Dr. Kirk, on ascertaining the fact, administered a large dose of warm lard; Dr. Reynolds following, gave chloroform, and on Dr. Hahn's recommendation, camphor was added. Within five hours the little ones were pronounced out of danger, and are now doing well. Strychnine should, in the family, never be placed within the possible reach of children, but the remedies of lard, and camphor, and chloroform, especially the two former, are within reach in most families and should be remembered as antidotes in a list every intelligent person should ever keep in mind or within instant reach, to meet the more common accidents, where priceless human life may be the reward of such precaution.

City Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn.—We find, in a late number of the Hartford Courant, the subjoined notice of the above Insurance Company. It needs no endorsement in this city, where it has for several years done an extensive and, to its customers, a satisfactory business. Yet coming from Hartford, where its officers and its condition are so well known, it is calculated to confirm the reputation the Company has earned. We are glad to find in a distant paper an article at once so complimentary and appreciative of our enterprising fellow citizen, Mr. Lounsbury. He has won his way to well deserved distinction as an underwriter. As a local underwriter in Chicago he has built up a business which in extent is hardly equaled in the country. In this, his new field of labor, his energy and business tact have more extended scope, and we are not surprised to learn that, under his more immediate management, the business of the above Company is very rapidly growing in the West.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column, that the agent of the Company for Chicago is that experienced underwriter, C. N. Holden, Esq. Under such management, general and local, success will be the natural result.

The following is the article from the Courant:

We call attention to the January exhibit of the "City Fire Insurance Company," in our advertising columns, and are pleased to notice satisfactory evidence of its improved condition and increasing prosperity. Its business, since the inauguration of its present officers, and increase of capital in July last, has increased in a ratio far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of its managers, and fully confirms our predictions of its success, made at that time.

We understand the present policy of the company is to divide only moderate dividends, retaining a portion of its earnings until an ample re-insurance fund shall be added to the capital, and we can confidently recommend its policies to persons seeking insurance, knowing the company to be one among the most reliable and prosperous institutions of our city.

The company is fortunate in having secured as its General Agent for the Western Department, W. B. Lounsbury, Esq., of Chicago, Ill., who is favorably known as an indefatigable worker, of much skill and experience in all the details of underwriting. Under his management for the past nine months, this company has greatly extended its Western agencies, and with gratifying success.

Arrest of a Burglar.—On Saturday afternoon Officer Paul H. Dennis, of Pinkerton's Police, and Captain Kennedy arrested W. Floyd, a young colored man, at No. 347 South Wells street, charged with burglary and larceny at the cigar store No. 400 State street, a few nights since, as already noticed by us. His booty on the occasion was several boxes of cigars a part of which have been identified and recovered from his room as above. He is to be examined to-day.

Students' Festival.—The graduates and students of Bryant & Stratton's and Bell's Commercial Colleges are hereby respectfully invited to meet in the lecture room of Bryant, Bell & Stratton's College, in the Larmon Block, on Tuesday evening next, to make preliminary arrangements for a Students' Festival, in celebration of the union of these two influential and well established Commercial Colleges of the Northwest.

Many Students of both Colleges.

Stealing from a Fellow Boarder.—Lewis Schabel was arrested yesterday and brought to the Armory on the complaint of Henry Woodman, a fellow-boarder, who charged him with stealing a wallet containing four sovereigns and two half-sovereigns—amounting in all to about $25. Two witnesses testified to seeing him pick up the wallet, while he was setting in Woodman's room, and did not see him put it down. Justice Akin held Schobel in $300 to answer.

☞ The regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held at their rooms, No. 205 Randolph street, on Monday evening, 17th inst., at seven o'clock. Members are urged (as business of importance will be brought up), and all young men are cordially invited to attend.

THE TRIAL OF JAMES WILLIAMS, ALIAS MARTIN BARRY.

FOR THE MURDER OF RICH'D GROUT.

At Chicago, September, 1858.

Circuit Court of Cook County—Hon. George Manierre, Presiding.

On Friday evening, immediately previous to the adjournment of the Court, the McNamee case having just been given to the jury, the case was called of The People vs. James Williams, alias Martin Barry, indicted for the alleged murder of Richard Grout, a saloon keeper on South Canal street, in the West Division, opposite the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis Railroad grounds, in the month of September last. The trial was set down for the following day.

At the opening of the Court on Saturday morning, the prisoner was brought into Court under care of the officers. The City Prosecutor, John C. Miller, Esq., is associated with District Attorney Haven in the trial of the case, the defence being managed by Messrs. Kerr, Driscoll and Westcott.

The prisoner is a young man of about twenty, whose antecedents in our courts, to say no more, will preclude all reference or showing as to character in the management of his defence. The getting a jury occupied until about 4 o'clock P. M., when the following were sworn in:

THE JURY.

Lewis Young,	Fernando Jones,
Wm. H. Reynolds,	Benjamin H. Cravens,
John Dillingham,	Luther B. Warner,
Marshal G. Edgerton,	Charles G. Conkey,
John Roberts,	Geo. W. Booth,
Harvey Danks,	James Hart.

The opening arguments were made on Saturday evening. The hearing of the testimony will commence this morning.

Fire Companies Nos. 3 and 5.—The following is the report of the Committee in the Council on Fire and Water, which had the subject under advisement, in relation to the obstructions and impediments put in the way of the steam fire engines Enterprise, Atlantic and Island Queen, by companies Nos. 3 and 5, when on their way to fire:

That, by investigating this matter, they find that on the night of the 11th of Sept. 1858, as the steam fire engine Enterprise was proceeding to a fire on South Canal street, they overtook No. 3's engine, the members of which let down their brakes and then ran their machine from one side of the street to the other in such a manner as to prevent the Enterprise from passing them, thus delaying the arrival of the steamer in getting to the fire. And on the morning of the 22d of September, when the steam fire engine Atlantic was proceeding to a fire on South Canal street, they also overtook No. 3's engine, and the members served them in the same way as in the case of the Enterprise. And on the night of the 27th of November, as the steam fire Engine Island Queen was proceeding to a fire in block 60, in Russell, Mather & Roberts' Addition, she overtook company No. 5's engine on Canal street; they also let down their brakes and got their hose carriage beside them to prevent the steamer from passing them, thus preventing them both from getting to the fire in time to do any service. This, in the opinion of your committee, is an act on the part of Nos. 3 and 5 which deserves at least a good deal of censure, if not an order for disbanding them. And, inasmuch as your committee were unable to ascertain the fact that there was a great amount of property destroyed in consequence of the conduct of said companies Nos. 3 and 5, they would therefore respectfully report in favor of overlooking the conduct of Nos. 3 and 5 for this time, but warn them of the consequences for the future, in case they should be guilty of like conduct.

The report was laid over by the Council and ordered to be printed.

Dr. Blaney's Lectures.—We desire to call the attention of our readers to a series of popular scientific lectures to be given by Professor Blaney, in Metropolitan Hall, on the 17th, 24th and 31st inst. The subject of the first lecture, which is on Monday evening next, is the "Chemical Geology and Coal Deposits," to the consideration of which no man perhaps can bring more scholastic ability or varied and extensive experience than Dr. Blaney, while as one of the early citizens of Chicago, he is universally respected and esteemed. Let all, therefore, attend his lectures.

Lake Street Bridge.—At the last meeting of the Common Council, the following order was passed in reference to the Lake Street Bridge:

Ordered, That the City Clerk be, and he is hereby instructed, to advertise ten days in the corporation newspaper for bids for the construction of a bridge across the South Branch of the Chicago river, at Lake street, and the furnishing of materials therefor, the same to be done according to plan and specifications in the office of the City Superintendent, in ten weeks from signing of contracts. Bids to be returned to City Clerk, and opened in the Council at its regular meeting. The city reserving the right to reject any and all kinds of bids.

Horse Railroad on the North Side.—At the last meeting of the Common Council, a petition was presented from Wm. B. Ogden and others, asking for authority to construct horse railways in the North Division. It is proposed to build a horse railway on North Clark street to the city limits, with the design of ultimately extending it to Lake View.

Clark Street M. E. Church.—Interesting meetings are now being held in this church every evening of the week, except Saturdays, under the direction of Rev. Mr. Stewart, the Pastor. An usual degree of interest is manifested, and the results are very gratifying. All are invited to attend.

Personal.—Messrs. Judd of the Senate, and Baker, Higgins, Peck and Butz of the House, arrived home yesterday morning, the Legislature having adjourned from Friday till Monday.

Dr. Brownson's Lecture.—Dr. O. A. Brownson, "the celebrated Reviewer," will lecture at the Mechanics' Institute this evening on the "Popular objections to Catholicity."

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

Kate Delaney, for kicking up a disturbance at the Burnett House, was fined $3 and judgment suspended.

Edward Welden, simple drunk, $3.

Lib. Wood, drunk and disorderly, an old offender, fined $10.

Tobias Anderson—same old Tobias—vagabond, fined $30.

Thos. Smith, drunk and vagabond, $5.

Charles Ferris and Stephen Budrow, fighting—Stephen was fined $5, and Ferris discharged, the former being the aggressor.

Chas. Watkins, passing counterfeit money, $50.

Thomas Lecks, violating market ordinance, $10.

C. Metzker, drunk, $5. Was discharged on a charge of assault and battery.

Joseph Cook, arrested as a vagabond, was discharged.

LOCAL MATTERS.

☞ To all who want to get a large return for a very small investment, we say call at No. 48 Lasalle street, and secure stock in the Dement Building Association. It is a safe institution, the stock going up, and we are told, going up quite rapidly; and that Mr. Dement's creditors, for whose benefit he has put up this property, have come forward and taken stock liberally, and some of them to the full amount of their claims. ja 17-3t

☞ Messrs. George W. Stevens & Co., 98 Lake street, corner Dearborn, have on hand, as usual, a great variety of elegant Watches, Jewelry, Silver Ware and Fancy Goods, than which no better, cheaper or more beautiful can be found in Chicago. Those purchasing anything in their line will do well to give them a call before buying elsewhere.

A Glorious Achievement by Gayetty!—Nothing can exceed the success achieved by J. C. Gayetty's Medicated paper for the water closet. Piles will soon be a disease no longer known except in name. This pure medicated paper is unequaled as a preventive, and unapproachable as a cure. The proprietors wish it to be spoken of according to its merits only. It is very cheap—1,000 sheets for $1; 500 sheets for 50 cents. Sold by all druggists, and at the discoverer's depot, 41 Ann street, New York. "J. C. Gayetty" is watermarked in each sheet, and his autograph is on each package. Sent by express from 41 Ann street, New York, upon receipt of price. TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

XXXVTH CONGRESS—SECOND SESSION.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Senate.—The Pacific Railroad bill, being the special order, was discussed during the whole day's session.

In the course of the discussion Mr. Doolittle submitted an amendment, providing that any contract by the President be submitted by him to Congress and take effect only by joint resolution.

This amendment was adopted.

Finally, a motion by Mr. Mason to recommit the bill was lost by 29 against 23, and another by Mr. Toombs, to lay it on the table, was also lost by 29 to 27.

Senate adjourned till Monday.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Senate not in session.

House.—On motion of Mr. Winslow of North Carolina, a resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Navy, for information generally concerning the Navy Yards, the object being to facilitate the business before the Naval Committee.

On motion of Mr. Howard of Michigan, it was resolved, that the Naval Committee report what legislation is necessary to reduce the expenses of the Navy, and whether any yards and docks can be abandoned.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the bill to codify the revenue laws.

At the instance of Mr. Stephens, of Ga., the consideration of the motion to commit the French spoliation bill, reported at the last session, to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, was further postponed till February 1st. This does not affect the bill recently passed by the Senate.

Mr. Comins, of Mass., while not approving of all the details of the bill, would give it his support on broad national grounds, it being important not only to the navigating but all the transportation interests of the country.

Mr. Giddings gave notice of an amendment to abolish the traffic in slaves, to which this country in the treaty negotiated with Great Britain in 1814 is committed. He said: Will gentlemen countenance the traffic in human flesh and involve the nation in the guilt of perjury?

Mr. Smith, of Va.—What do you think of the Coolie trade, and of the French traffic in Africans?

Mr. Giddings.—I think it as bad as the coastwise slave trade. If it was to sell the gentleman and his wife and children, I should object. [Laughter].

Mr. Smith.—I suggest whether it would not be as well to comment on the interesting fact that thirty-five vessels in free States are engaged in the slave trade, and only five in the Southern, before he undertakes to reform the morals of his neighbors.

Mr. Giddings.—I would as soon lay my hand on a Northern as a Southern pirate. I am not sectional in my views. [Laughter].

In the course of his remarks he said if be should be nominated for Governor of Ohio, he wanted to make a straight out issue with the Democratic party. He wanted to know from his colleague, Mr. Cox, whether the latter's party was for or against the slave trade.

Mr. Cox rose to pay his respects to his colleague for a few moments, and a crowd gathered around him. He said that Mr. Giddings knew that the Democratic members of the former session voted that it was inexpedient and unjust to restore the African slave trade, and that Democrats North and South are opposed to it.

Mr. Giddings remarked that he had alluded to the coastwise slave trade.

Mr. Cox resumed and said that Giddings had undertaken to place the Democrats in a false position, and inculcate the idea that the Democratic party was pro-slavery, when he knew that it was neither pro-slavery nor anti-slavery, but placed itself on the doctrine of leaving the people to regulate the matter as they deem proper. He hoped that his colleague may be nominated for the Governorship of Ohio, and when the election was over, the latter would be left to ponder over the result, and exclaim with Aristides, "I yield to Popular Opinion in everything—even when the people drive me into exile." [Laughter.] His colleague favored negro equality in a speech, the other day, but in his printed speech, modified his language.

Mr. Giddings remarked that his colleague misunderstood him.

Mr. Cox—Are you in favor of negroes in Ohio voting?

Mr. Giddings—I expressed no such opinion. [Laughter.]

Mr. Cox.—Will you permit them to vote.

Mr. Giddings.—I would whenever negroes excel the Democratic party in intellect and moral virtue. [Excessive laughter.]

Mr. Cox.—My colleague does not come up to his doctrine. Is he or not in favor of African Equality and Negro Suffrage in Ohio.

Mr. Giddings.—I would put them and the Democrats on the same footing [illegible] but I will not interfere in the quarrel between them.

Mr. Cox.—The difference between my age and that of my friend, if I may so call him, will not allow me to put him to the torture because he cannot be elected Governor of Ohio. In rising, all I wished to do, was to put the Democratic party right, and it is right. The gentleman can come on with his force and we will meet him.

Mr. Stanton of Ohio, wanted to ask Mr. Cox a question.

Mr. Houston of Alabama, objected. The House had had enough of this. There was much confusion during the proceedings, everybody being evidently interested in the dialogue.

Mr. John Cochrane in closing the general debate on the bill, said he did not anticipate they would embark on the sea of abolition and slavery discussion, simply on a question of commerce and codification of commercial laws. He proceeded to answer the objections to, and advocated the passage of the bill.

The Committee rose and the House adjourned.

From Washington.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The House Committee on Territories ordered that the bill for the organization of Arizona be reported with the boundaries asked for by the people of the Territory through their delegate, Lieut. Mowry, viz: all the territory south of the parallel of latitude north 33 40 from Texas to the Colorado of the West.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs to-day agreed to report a bill similar to that of Senator Slidell, who proposes to place in the hands of the President $30,000,000 to negotiate for the purchase of Cuba. There will be a minority report.

At least twelve or fourteen Republicans in the House will vote for the Senate bill for the admission of Oregon in the Union, and oppose all efforts to tramel its passage.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Commodore Perry has been ordered to the command of the storeship Relief, soon to leave for Aspinwall. Lieut. Fitzgerald, restored to the Navy, has been ordered to the same vessel.

Mr. Mercer, who was dropped as a midshipmen, and restored as a Lieutenant, has resigned.

L. L. Dawson, of Texas, late clerk in the Land Office, has been appointed 2d Lieut. in the Marine Corps.

The treasury statement shows an amount subject to draft of $3,115,000, The receipts of the week are $726,000—an increase over last week of nearly $82,000. Drafts issued amount to $580,000, and drafts paid $644,000; nett balance in the treasury, $1,011,000.

Important from Washington.

New York, Jan. 15.—The Times' Washington correspondent telegraphs the following:

Rumors are current of a serious misunderstanding amongst some members of the Cabinet, which may lead to the withdrawal of Mr. Toucey. The difficulty grew out of the contract for the machinery of the sloop-of-war to be built at Philadelphia, Messrs. Norris & Bro., charging on oath that the successful competitors were privately informed by the Department of the amounts of other bids, and were thus enabled to under-bid all others. It is said, however, that the President and Attorney-General sustain the action of the Secretary.

President Buchanan denies orally that any communication relative to our foreign policy, has been received either from England or France, but has thus far failed to respond in writing. The Foreign Committee insist on a written answer.

The Lecompton Democrats of Indiana fuse with the "Anties."

Indianapolis, Jan. 14.—The Legislature in joint convention this afternoon elected the following officers:

State Printer, John C. Walker, of Laporte County.

Agent of State, James A. Cravens, of Washington County.

Canal Trustee, Richard Raleigh, of Vanderburgh County.

State Prison Directors, P. E. Cookerly, S. H. Bushrick and John Brown.

All anti-Lecompton Democrats, the Administration party voting with the anti-Lecompton men.

Great rejoicing among the Democrats in the result.

Report of Board of Lake Underwriters.

Buffalo, Jan. 15.—The annual report of underwriters, published this morning shows the total loss on steam and sailing vessels with their cargoes, during the year 1858, to be $732,249—a decrease from the previous year of $455,703. The total loss of life for 1858 was 122—a decrease from the previous year.

A Sympathy Meeting.

New York, Jan. 15.—A meeting of sympathizers with the young men lately arrested in Ireland, for treasonable practices, was held last evening in Tammany Hall, and a committee appointed to collect funds to aid in their defence.

SECOND ANNUAL ISSUE. D. B. COOK & CO'S Directory of Chicago for the Year 1859, will be issued promptly during the first week in May. It will embrace all removals, changes in business firms, and important statistics brought down to that date. The publishers are confident that their second issue will be a great improvement upon their previous volume. It is their intention to produce a Directory of Chicago perfect in every particular, giving such an exhibit of the city and her resources as will convince our rivals that Chicago is not all "mere bubble." D. B. COOKE & CO'S DIRECTORY OF CHICAGO will be a complete guide to the citizen and stranger, embracing the name, occupation and address of every resident within the city boundaries, merchants, bankers, laborers, manufacturers, agents and clerks. THE BUSINESS MIRROR will exhibit every branch of trade or profession arranged alphabetically, and classified under appropriate headings. The Appendix will be very full, containing full lists of courts, banks, insurance agencies, incorporated societies, schools, and all public institutions, railroads, &c. ADVERTISING.—we will receive as usual a limited amount of advertising. As a medium for advertising D. B. Cooke & Co's Directory is unsurpassed. Our edition is always large, and all surplus copies are distributed gratuitously throughout the west. Our advertisers will find a copy of the Directory upon the table of nearly every public house in Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa. This mode of advertising is worth vastly more than anything that can be done with country newspapers. OUR CANVASSERS will commence their labors early next month, and all contracts will be made in our name. D. B. COOKE & CO., Publishers, ja 17 111 Lake street.

PRESS AND TRIBUNE.

MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 17, 1859.

The Two Lecomptons.

The public are familiar with the arguments employed by the Administration to force the Lecompton Constitution upon the people of Kansas—sophistries so transparent that the wayfaring man though a fool did not err therein, and falsehoods so glaring that indignation was lost in amazement at contemplating them: 1st. The Lecompton contrivance was the act of the people of Kansas. 2d. Its opponents were traitors and fanatics of the Topeka breed. 3d. If the people didn't like the Constitution they could change it when they got ready. 4th. The practice of submitting constitutions to the people was by no means universal and would be attended with manifest inconvenience in this case. It will be remembered also that the public were for a long time kept in ignorance of the exact character of the swindle, though all knew it to be a swindle; that the first election after its adoption by the Convention was held under a "villain apportionment;" that the returns were snugly candle-boxed by Calhoun, and that the certificates played hide-and seek in the breeches of that illustrious patriot for some time afterwards.

If the engineers and apologists of the Dyer charter for the city of Chicago had drawn their arguments, word for word, from the messages of Buchanan and the speeches of the Lecomptonites in Congress, and if they had daguerreotyped the tactics of the Lecomptonites in Kansas, they could not have presented a more perfect fac simile. They are as like as two peas, or the same pea twice over. The State Register of Springfield has put forth the only plea in favor of the Dyer contrivance, which amounts to a defence in detail; yet the Register it seems had not the impudence to give it an editorial sanction—prudently shielding itself by appending three asterisks () to its two columns of mendacity and misrepresentation. The Chicago Times copies this with only a subdued endorsement, as though the thing was being cut pretty fat, by Jove! It says merely that "the article transferred to another column of this paper from the State Register, presents the whole subject in a "clear and irresistible light. No reader certainly, can be in doubt as to the intentions "of the friends to the movement, nor as to "the nature of the amendments contemplated; and no reader, it should seem, can "question their propriety and necessity." As to the subject being presented in an irresistible light, and as to there being no doubt concerning the intentions of the friends of the movement, all people will agree. As to the similarity of the bill itself and the apology put forth to sustain it, with the Lecompton Constitution, being so close as to compel the belief that they enjoy the same pedigree and are entitled to the same fate—we shall proceed to show:

I. "The Lecompton Constitution was the act of the people of Kansas." The Register article says that a certain bill was prepared by a committee consisting of Thomas Dyer, William H. Brown, Flavel Moseley, Hugh Maher, Walter L. Newberry, John H. Kinzie, Daniel Brainard, Sylvester Lind, S. S. Hayes, Thomas Hoyne and others. Perhaps so; but it was not this bill. The Register leaves the inference broadly, that all the gentlemen named above helped to frame and actually approved the Dyer Charter. The facts are, that, deducting those who are nominated for office under under it, not one of them have ever had anything to do with the contrivance at Springfield, and we are assured not one of them approves it, but all loudly protest against it. So the sum total of our population, who demand the enactment of the contrivance, amounts to about the aggregate of the nine tailors who addressed a petition to Parliament under the caption, "We, the people of England!" We ask this question again, If it is believed that the Tom Dyer Charter embodies the will of the people of Chicago, why not have it fairly submitted at the election to be held six weeks hence?

II. "The opponents of Lecompton are Topeka traitors and fanatics." Though the Republicanism of Chicago has not been made a reason, in print, why the people should be defrauded and disfranchised, it is notorious that this is the chief argument depended on at Springfield to make the Dyer bill a caucus measure, and thus drive it through by a party vote. This is the very essence of Lecomptonism. It means that no crime against constitutional rights is too great to be justified by the needs of a few hungry politicians.

III. "If the people do not want the Constitution, they can alter it at their pleasure." At this point the likeness is at fault, and the original Lecompton has an immeasurable advantage over the Illinois thing. The Dyer bill is framed with an express view of never being changed. It is self-perpetuating. It gives no promise of alteration, however odious to the voters and property holders, unless reversed at some future time by another Legislature; and even then the alteration will be made by men living from one to four hundred miles from the interests at stake—the people of Chicago having as little to say in the premises, as the dwellers around the high hills of Bagdad.

IV. "Submission to the popular vote is not essential to the justice or legality of the measure and might be attended with inconvenience." This was the most flagrant feature of Lecompton, and is the most shameless falsehood enveloping the Dyer charter. Basing all their hopes on a scheme to defeat the majority of the voters, its advocates understand that a submission to the people would be as profitless as playing penny-poker, right hand against left. They have got too old to find amusement in pulling a sled up hill to ride down on. The farce of passing a law known to be odious to the people and then giving the people a chance to vote on it, is not the entertainment to which they have invited themselves. Therefore they wisely avoid any discussion of this point, when brought down to it, not only argument but impudence fails them.

But let us see wherein the tactics of Calhoun have been copied by Dyer and Co. In the first place the bill has not yet been introduced, and therefore its provisions are altered from day to day, to blind the public sight and forestall public opinion as to its real character. Here is Lecompton again. In the next place, it apportions the Wards in such a way that one-third of the population shall inevitably rule the other two-thirds. Here is more of Lecompton. Next, it provides for a Board of Police Commissioners antecedent to any election whatever, to be appointed by the power which enacts the charter. Here is a feature corresponding with the Dictatorship conferred upon John Calhoun. Lecompton from first to last, from top to bottom, from inside to outside.

But the likeness does not end here. The Lecompton Constitution was so repulsive and criminal in all its bearings, that the people of Kansas resolved never to live under it. In this resolution they were supported by both political parties in Illinois. Let Dyer & Co. succeed in their undertaking, and then see whether the citizens of Chicago are more craven in spirit than their brethren beyond the Missouri River, or slower to profit by the teachings of the late campaign.

Salaries of Legislative Officers in Wisconsin.

The Republican members of the Wisconsin Legislature agreed in caucus upon the following scale of prices for the officers and employees of that body:

Chief Clerk, to receive $5 per diem.
First Assistant, " $3 "
Subordinate, " $2.50 "
Sergt-at-Arms, " $2.50 "
Assistant, " $2.50 "
Subordinates range from $2 to $1 per day.

In the Illinois Legislature the Democracy are in the majority. Let our readers preserve the above list of prices paid by a Republican Legislature, and see how they will compare with those which our Democratic law-makers will agree upon.

☞ At Townsend, Mass., on Tuesday, the thermometer stood forty-five degrees below zero. In other sections of New England, though not so severe, the weather was very cold.

New Line of Steamers to run in Connection with the Grand Trunk Railway from Galway, Ireland, to Quebec.

In giving some account of the new lines of railway to the seaboard on Wednesday morning of last week, we spoke somewhat at length of the gigantic schemes soon to be realized by the completion of the tubular iron bridge at Montreal, and the opening of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada to Detroit. We have before us a pamphlet of thirty-two pages, marked "private and confidential," setting forth the reasons which have induced the formation of the "Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company," for the purpose of "placing a line of first-class and powerful steamers between the nearest ports of Europe and America." These ports, as stated in the pamphlet, and indicated on the map published with it, are Galway in Ireland, and Quebec and Portland on this side of the Atlantic. It is known to our readers that a line of large and very fine screw steamers is established between Liverpool and Quebec, and those who have noticed our telegraphic dispatches will remember that for the last year or two a very considerable portion of our foreign news has come by this line. Galway is on the west coast of Ireland, has a fine harbor, and is directly west of Liverpool. A railway connects Dublin and Galway, so that the shortest possible time could be made between the two cities.

The pamphlet urges the establishment of the new line, from the fact that four companies have been established since the Cunard line went into operation, and yet the latter Company is now more prosperous than ever, and all of them are doing a lucrative and rapidly increasing business.

The writer enters into a critical, elaborate and highly interesting statement of the present condition and prospects of the British American Provinces, and of the American States bordering upon the valley of the St. Lawrence. Statistics are given in abundance showing the extent and the value of their commerce, and the astonishing progress they have made in wealth and population during the last few years. These figures would not be new to the readers of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE, but the liberal and in the main accurate manner in which they are introduced, shows the kind of argument which English capitalists use and appreciate. The vast extent and the untold advantages of our lake and river navigation, seem to have been well understood by the writer, and the importance of a connection with that inland navigation and the rich commerce it will yield is correctly and forcibly stated. The fact that the Grand Trunk Railway is so soon to be completed to the centre of the continent, and its mineral and agricultural riches rendered available to European trade by this, the shortest and the quickest possible route, is also used to urge the early establishment of this new line of steamers.

But the facts and the figures of the writer are not bounded by that portion of the American continent now under cultivation and settlement. The accompanying map stretches entirely across the continent to Puget's Sound. Speaking of the territory between Lake Superior and the Pacific, the writer says:

> It equals in size the whole of Europe, and there is every reason to believe that in the greater portion it will be found that the land is as fertile as in either France, Italy or England.
>
> All around and far beyond the Columbia and the Frazer Rivers, are territories which require only colonization to rival in fertility the most favorable spots on the globe. There is no want of water or timber; there is plenty of coal, and there is less winter than in Great Britain. All the cereals that grow in France, Spain and England, grow there luxuriantly.
>
> One thing only is wanted, and that is a short cut across this, our own territory to the Pacific—a distance of only 1,650 miles. The passage then from England to Canton would only occupy from thirty-five to forty days. Attention is particularly drawn to this route, as laid down in the map in this pamphlet.
>
> In the Morning Post of London, August 18, it is stated that an important public meeting was held in Toronto, Canada, on the 30th July, at which Mr. Allen McDonald stated that he had spent many years of his life west of Lake Superior, and could, therefore, give his opinion with confidence on this important subject. Leaving the gold question aside, he could speak from experience, that the country, for agricultural purposes, was unrivalled—far better even than Canada itself.
>
> He also stated, that a Company formed in Canada, of which he was a member, and a bill to incorporate the Company, had passed the second reading in the Canadian Legislature, the object of which was to re-establish a communication with the Pacific shore. This Company hoped to be able, almost immediately to offer to emigrants for New Columbia, a short and cheap route.
>
> The route was from Pembina down the Red River into Lake Winnipeg; from thence they would be able to go up the Saskatchewan River, which was navigable by steamer for the distance of 1,400 miles. If the route of the Northwest country were struck, and the course of the Peace River followed, it would bring us within 375 paces of the Frazer and Thompson Rivers. There was no country in the world that had so complete a chain of navigable waters as this.
>
> From Lake Superior to the Lake of Woods, there was not a portage over three miles in length, some of them were not more than sixteen yards.
>
> The Company which he had mentioned proposed to build a class of boats which could readily be taken out of the water, and by means of tramways convey over these portages without breaking bulk.
>
> On the Saskatchewan, west of Lake Winnipeg, there was only one portage, about a mile in length.
>
> Mr. Ross, a gentleman introduced by the Chairman as having been for a long time in the employ of the Northwest and Hudson's Bay Companies, next addressed the meeting.
>
> He had travelled to the Pacific via Fort William, Rainy Lake, the Lake of the Woods, Lake Winnipeg, down the Athabaska River, and across the Rocky Mountains. He crossed these mountains in the winter; their tops were covered with snow and ice, but when he arrived in the valley of the Columbia, there was a complete change, the cold entirely disappeared. To show the mildness of the climate in New Caledonia, he might mention that he had bathed in the river the whole year round. At the confluence of the Fraser and Thompson Rivers he had also wintered. They had no snow until February, and then it fell to the depth of two or three feet, but disappeared in three weeks. With respect to the time the journey would occupy, we could go from Toronto to Fort William in four days, from thence to Lake Winnipeg in eight days, and up the Saskatchewan to the Rocky Mountains in twenty days. The country through its whole extent was as fertile as it had been described, and means of conveyance were plentiful. When he was on the banks of the Columbia River, he knew one Indian chief alone who owned 1,200 horses. A horse there might be bought for a blanket worth about 8s. 6d. sterling. A gun which in England cost 22s. 6d., he had himself sold for twenty large beaver skins, each one of which was worth $5—$100 for an article which cost 22s. 6d. in England. [Cheers.] The Indians on this side of the Rocky Mountains were pacific, glad to see any white man, and if the pipe were handed to them, would offer the best their lodge afforded. On the other side they were said to be rather hostile towards the people who were now entering the country.

This is but one among a thousand examples to show that English capitalists and statesmen are beginning to understand the value and the extent of their possessions west of Lake Superior. With the returing tide of prosperity which the immense amounts of idle capital in the monied centres of the world must soon diffuse through all the channels of trade and progress, the completion of a railway across the American continent through the British possessions, may be among the mighty works which the intelligent, restless energy of the Anglo Saxon race shall accomplish. It would be a far more worthy achievement than any conqueror has ever been able to hand down to after ages.

The Proposed New Territory of Colona.

The Washington reporter for the Associated Press might have saved himself the trouble of sending forward a dispatch saying that Mr. Buchanan would oppose the organization of the new Territory of Colona. Mr. Buchanan's antecedents and his close affiliation with the Slavery Propaganda long ago fixed his position; and in the matter which Mr. Colfax has taken in hand, and will press with all possible haste, the President's aid was not expected; on the contrary his early, persistent and vigorous opposition was looked for; and now nobody is disappointed in finding that it has already commenced. The day for the exercise of influence by the Administration in power, has passed. "Brute force" in the shape of the veto, is yet at the President's disposal; and he may wield that for the denial of settler's rights; but let the author of the bill for the organization of Colona push forward, and he will compel our venerable Dictator to make another and more explicit declaration of his hostility to popular sovereignty and Territorial rights. Mr. Colfax already deserves the thanks of every man who will emigrate to the new gold fields, for his timely action. Let him adopt the Yankee maxim, and "go ahead!"

Illinois Judiciary Pay of the Judges.

The defeat in the Senate of the proposition to tax each suit at law a docket fee of one dollar, for the use and benefit of the Judge in whose court it is commenced; and the defeat at the same time of Underwood's bill, by which the Judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts were constituted a body of Commissioners for the revision of the laws, make it apparent that nothing will be done during the present session of the Legislature for the relief of the chief officers of our judicial system; and that they must continue as heretofore to discharge their difficult and delicate duties for about the salary of an ordinary salesman in a city man-millinery establishment. While we regret that this action has shut off all hope of increase of pay for the able and faithful body of men who are now on the Bench, we are compelled to commend that fear of violating the constitution, by which the majority were controlled. Their votes did not proceed from a niggardly spirit or a desire to make the Judiciary feel the weight of the legislative arm; but from scruples in regard to the constitutionality of the action proposed, which they could not overcome. As their dissent was probably declared after full examination of the points involved, we may not hope that their action will be reversed. The Judges must continue to give their time and talents to the people for a ridiculously inadequate compensation or they will resign.

An Officer Murdered.

We learn from the Oquawka Plaindealer of the 13th inst. the particulars of a shocking tragedy in Henderson County, resulting in the death of David Welch a constable of that place, at the hands of Jacob Yeder, aided by Enoch Hollingsworth. It appears that the father of Enoch Hollingsworth owns a mill near Oquawka, and some time ago made an arrangement with another son of his, Addison Hollingsworth, to take charge of it and run it on his own account. Subsequently the elder Hollingsworth changed his mind, and desired his son Addison to give up the mill which the latter refused to do. On Monday last, Addison left home, and his brother Enoch, at once moved his family into the mill, taking possession of it on his father's account, and having with him Jacob Yeder. On the return of Addison a violent altercation took place between him and the parties in possession, ending in blows, in which the former was worsted. He at once proceeded to town, got out a warrant for the arrest of his brother and Yeder for assault and battery. This was placed in the hands of David Welch, who on attempting to execute it was shot by Yeder, the ball taking effect in his leg, shattering it horribly. The leg was amputated, but Welch died the next day. Hollingsworth and Yeder are in custody.

Press and Tribune's Annual Review.

We made a note of it last week, but it was crowded out, that the Press and Tribune has its Annual Review of the great branches of business of Chicago, for 1858, and such an one as is decisive of two things.

First—That there is no such newspaper for enterprise and business in sight, in all the North-west, and none Southwest, the St. Louis Republican excepted. It must have taken as much work to get up this old year's exhibit as to have made a dozen regular dailies. But the paper does the same every year. Such a power in Chicago as that united press, is a matter of pride and joy to all except political foes; and even they must concede its great value as a business sheet always alive to the interests of the country giving it support, to say nothing of its ability as a newspaper in a literary and political capacity. It deserves to thrive beyond any contingency of the hard times, and may it find that its Annual, for 1859, shall include a large prosperity for the Press and Tribune.

Secondly—This Annual exhibit of three or four pages of figures, that cannot lie, shows that Chicago can make a conclusive answer to all such Eastern strictures as "who owns Chicago?"—"Chicago to let"—"Her bottom dropt out", etc. These are all answered in the same way that Webster answered Haynes about Massachusetts, viz: "There she is, with her Lexington, her Concord, and her Bunker Hill." So the Press and Tribune points to her balance sheet and says, of 1858, "there it is, and though less than some years showing, there are her shipping, her trade, her building, her street improvement, her manufacturing, her population, etc."

It might have gone on and said—"There she is with her hotels, enough to feed, as she does, half the travelers of the Union—there are her Public Schools, ahead of some Colleges, even at the East—there are her half a dozen noble endowments of Colleges, and Theological Seminaries, and nobly manned; there are her new Churches, marble and vast, ornate and lofty, and beyond the growth and of the same strength and beauties in the sanctuaries of any other city East, West, North or South, in the same year; there is her newly touched, enlarged Court House that would grace the Capital of many a State; her Natural History Society, with a library of 16,000 volumes; her new Law Library, free to all the Bar on paying a pittance; and last, but not least, her great Railroad interests—one citizen having subscribed $1,600,000 to the completion of one of her dozen roads of equal extent."

Foreign capital may be in these—as where is it not? and to the question—"Who owns Chicago?" she may answer, "We don't care who owns it; here it is, vaster than St. Louis in area—the equal of New Orleans in population, and as busy as New York on 'Change, and every way more like that Babel in its style of life—too fast though it be—than any other city in the Union."

She can afford to be slandered; and reposing meanwhile in her matchless position, 'twixt her lake of water and lakes of land—the one the highway of her ships, and the other of her studs of iron horses—and trusting in the virtue and prowess of her 125,000 and more of people, and in the "good time coming," with the coming good crop, she will, in the next twelve months, tell the taunters, East and South, that "her bottom" is as sure and deep as that which holds her great waters. "Her ownership" is like that of her people, where every man owns himself, and as to being "to let," she will open her gates to let half the East, in its unrest and disquiet, come in, or go through to the regions beyond, but only to return to pay her tribute.—Aurora Beacon, 13th.

A Letter from Pike's Peak.

[From the Mo. Republican, 12th.]

Capt. Geo. J. King yesterday received a letter from Mr. John G. Harris, a well-known Missouri River pilot, who was lately seized with the gold fever, and emigrated to Pike's Peak, from which we make the following extract:

AURARIA, Nov. 19, 1858.

I have arrived at Cherry Valley, and find it situated on the South Platte, 350 miles from Fort Kearny. We have built a house and expect to move into it to-morrow. Our trip out was pleasant. A word about the mines. A man can make from $3 to $10 per day. There is gold all over the country, and old miners say that if a man will work, he will do well at mining anywhere. I am well pleased with my trip, and am perfectly satisfied that I made it.

I think this will prove a good country for raising almost any kind of grain and garden products. We have plenty of game of almost every description, from the buffalo down to the squirrel—deer, turkey and antelope in abundance.

Yours, respectfully,
JOHN G. HARRIS.

Piccolomini Photographed.

A Boston paper thus reports "Little Pic.'s" singing in English while in that city:

[Enter Madame Piccolomini, R. E., at a sort of hop-and-skip step, (sensation and applause.) Courtesies to audience, and looks over left shoulder towards stage box.]

[Young man in small garrote shirt collar, large straw-colored whiskers and white kids, in a high state of excitement, cries "Brarver!"]

[Pic. smiles to balconies; conductor flourishes baton, and orchestra plays symphony; after which she sings]—

I dreampt zat I dwelt in marble halls,

[Glance over left shoulder, and sensation in stage box.]

Wiz vassals and serfs at my sard,
An of ori asembel wizin zose walls,
Zet i was ze ope an ze pride;
I had richesse too great too coonte,
Could boat a high ancestral fame,

[Three nods, a shrug of pretty shoulders, and smiles all round balconies.]

But I also dreampt, wich please me most,
Zat you loaf me still ze same,—

[Kenber utly to galleries, balconies and everybody.]

Zat you loaf me, zat you loaf me stil [illegible] ze same.

[Applause—laughter—mirth. Kids split to pieces in stage box, and a dress circle window smashed in by an individual in the lobby, anxious to see "what it was all about."]

Railroads in the West.

The Cincinnati Railroad Record sums up an interesting article on the Railroads of the West at the close of 1858, as follows:

Thus we have 9,424 miles of Railroads finished in nine States, comprehending over 400,000 square miles. In one of these States (Ohio,) the proportion is one to 14 square miles. In another (Indiana,) one in 23. In a third (Illinois,) one in 24. In a fourth (Michigan) one in 100. In a fifth (Wisconsin) one in 85. In Iowa, one in 240; in Kentucky, one in 170; and in Missouri, one in 155. We may safely assume, that in a few years, this region will have a proportion as large as one in 25 square miles; in which case the Central Railroad system will contain 16,000 squares miles,—and, we add with confidence, the profitable part of the American Railroads.

Michigan Legislature.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

LANSING, Jan. 12, 1859.

Since my last letter, the Republicans of this State, through their members of the Legislature, have achieved the glorious triumph of electing a thorough Republican to the United States Senate in the place of Charles E. Stuart, whose term of office expires on the fourth of March next. His successor, Ex-Governor Bingham, is too well known to the readers of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE, and to the people generally, to require any introduction at my hands. His popularity in this State is well attested by the fact that he received a handsome majority on the first informal ballot in the Republican cause. Stuart will unquestionably be taken care of and provided with a place by the Administration, to whose dictates he has so disgracefully succumbed. Governor Bingham gives his levee at the Benton House on Thursday evening of next week.

Since the excitement incidental to the Senatorial question has passed away, the Legislature has gradually settled down to the work of the session. No bills of importance or of interest outside of the State have as yet been introduced, with perhaps the exception of a bill to establish an emigrant agency abroad, for this State; also, a "bill to provide for ascertaining the annual cereal products of the State," which is popular with the members, and will pass without any opposition. Under this act, information as to the number of acres of wheat, corn, oats and barley sown and planted in each township and district in the State, will be given to the people on or before the first day of July of each year. This is a step in the right direction, and one, it is to be hoped, that will be taken by every wheat-growing State in the Union.

There is a strong disposition manifested among the members, at this session, to press forward the long talked of question of ceding back to the General Government the Upper Peninsula of this State, with the hope that a new State will be erected therefrom. I have no doubt but that the first active measures on the part of the National Administration to acquire Cuba, will be the signal for its full and final accomplishment. More anon, however, on this subject.

Charles E. Stuart was the Locofoco caucus candidate for United States Senator, which body also endorsed fully the Administration of Buchanan. So much for Stuart's betrayal and repudiation of Douglas and his doctrines.

PENINSULAR.

The Public Execution of Criminals.

Editors Press and Tribune:

The number of murder trials now before our Courts calls our attention to the subject of public executions. Must the moral sense of this community again be outraged by one, or more of these revolting and inhuman exhibitions? Cannot our present Legislature pass a law by which these expected executions can be made private? In my opinion the cause of morality calls loudly for such a step.

Meteorological Observations for 1858.

We are indebted to MR. J. B. NEWCOMB, of Elgin, Kane county, Illinois, for the following statement of his Meteorological observations for the year 1858:

The mean temperature for each month of 1858, as determined by the mean of three daily observations, at 7 A. M., and 2 and 9 P. M., is given in the table below; also the extremes as indicated by the self-registering Thermometer.

THERMOMETER.

Month.	MEANS. Degrees.	EXTREMES. Lowest.	Degrees.	Highest.	Degs.
January	21.87	8th	1	25th	59
February	13.607	11th 23d*	-27	27th	43

RAIN AND SNOW.

The amount of melted snow and rain is given below in inches and hundredths.

	Rain & Melted Snow.	Snow.		Rain & Melted Snow.	Snow.
January	2.75		July	6.42
February	1.80	18	August	3.31
March	3.68	6.5	September	4.20
April	3.95		October	2.94
May	7.		November	4.29	21.8
June	1.08		December	1.73	3.7

Amount of melted snow and rain, 46.55 inches.

It will be seen that more rain fell in May than in January, February, and October together.

The heaviest fall of rain during one storm, commenced on the 31st of July, at 4 P. M., and continued nearly twelve hours; the amount which fell was 3.27 inches.

The heaviest fall of snow commenced on the 27th of November, and continued with slight interruption about thirty hours, it was very damp; had none of it melted, it would have been 21 inches in depth.

It has been found as a general average, that ten inches of snow are equal to one of rain.

CLOUDS.

In the following table, the amount of cloudiness is given in thousandths.

January	.572	July	.605
February	.523	August	.431
March	.558	September	.376
April	.722	October	.610
May	.763	November	.643
June	.535	December	.7[illegible]3

Average for the year, .604.

WINDS.

The observations on the winds and clouds were made at 7 A. M., and 2 and 9 P. M. In the table below, the figures in the first column indicate the velocity, O denoting an entire calm, and 10 a most violent hurricane. The figures under the letters N., E., S., W., &c., indicate the number of times the wind was in the direction denoted by the letters.

DIRECTION.

By the above it will be seen that the prevailing winds have been from the North-West and South-East, and that there has been the least wind from the North.

Some of the Female Celebrities of Washington.

The New York correspondent of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican gives the following pen-and-ink portrait of a few of the lady celebrities of Washington, full length photographs of whom may be found at Brady's on Broadway:

First stands Mrs. Douglas; her physique is splendid—not soft and pliant, but proud and queenly, after the Roman model. Dark hair, blue eyes, classic features, brilliant complexion, with a commanding rather than winning expression. The picture does not do her justice. Her dress of black silk is not becoming, and is made in a fashion which robs somewhat the grace of her perfect form. Next stands Mrs. Conrad, all grace, clad in black velvet with pearls. A wily, a subtle, a beautiful Greek, with far searching eyes, peach-tinted cheek, and wavy, golden-brown hair. Mrs. Conrad, is a young and rich widow, "who (another has said) has too good sense to marry." She is called the greatest courtier in Washington, and exerts no small influence over State affairs. Beside her, stands Madame Le Vert of Mobile, long a habitue of Washington, who for he social genius is pre-eminent above all American women. Madame Le Vert, without being beautiful, either in form or feature, has reigned as a "belle" since she was ten years old. She has traveled widely, has visited nearly all foreign courts, can carry on conversation in six different languages at one time, and be equally charming in all. Yet not in her talents, nor in her accomplishments, lies her fascination, but in the genial sweetness, naturalness, and perfect simplicity of her manners, which seems to give her possession of all hearts. Her clear, blue-eye overflows with the exuberance of kindness, while around the serene mouth all gentle affections seem to have found dwelling. She wears a dress of brown silk with gorgeous bordered flounces, and a crimson rose in her hair. The sweetest compliment I ever heard for Madame Le Vert was uttered to me by one of her personal friends—"She is like a flower out in nature." Next her is Harriet Lane, of the "White House," Mr. Buchanan's niece. A blonde, cold and statuesque, pure, and passionless as marble—one's very admiration gives them a chill. She stands in a verandah—the Capitol in sight. A spray of flowers in her fair hair falls low upon her bare and beautiful neck. She looks a model of repose, the very Miss Lane, whom the papers assure us "receives with great dignity." And then, Lady Gore Ousely, the Yankee English woman, who had seen fit recently to dip her fingers in Nicaraguan affairs, who, according to the New York Times, rules not only her dear "Sir William," but our lady-like old President. Well! she is coarse and homely enough; and according to the notion of your "own correspondent," is dressed in horrid taste. She wears a string of jets around her head, of the size of walnuts; another around her neck of equal rotundity. She does not seem to care for an ample skirt, and has utterly discarded the "line of beauty" in its "fall," for it is "skimped" shorter behind than before, and the flounces curve up on the sides. But she has a falcon eye, and her whole bearing indicates, in even more than an ordinary degree, the woman's penchant and power to rule.

The Ellsworth Estate.

The executors of Hon. Henry L. Ellsworth's will are Prof. Goodrich and Henry White of New Haven, Elizur Goodrich and H. K. W. Welsh, of Hartford, W. S. Peckham of Indiana. They are to secure to his children, Henry W. Ellsworth and Mrs. Rosewell Smith, $25,000, and to the heirs of his son Edward a like sum; to his wife an annuity of $1,500; to the Boston Tract Society, the Home Missionary Society, the American Board of Foreign Missions, the American Colonization Society and the Bible Society, $1,000 each. The rest and residue of his estate goes for the benefit of Yale College—to be invested, it is reported, in scholarships. It is quite uncertain how much Yale will receive. If it gets $100,000, it will be as much as most of its friends anticipate.

Personal and Political.

Gen. Quitman attributed the cause of his decline, up to the last moment of his life, to poison administered to him in the shape of arsenic while a resident of the National Hotel, Washington. He used to assert that it was mixed with the sugar, and substantiated this by the fact that during the entire term of the malady, which afterward assumed the name of the hotel, no person was taken ill who refrained from the use of that article.

—The will of the implacable Thorndike came up before Judge Ames in Boston for Probate on Friday, the Hons. Rufus Choate and B. R. Curtis for the contestants, and John L. English for the will. Lieut. Marin was in Court during the proceedings. The case came up on the petition of the counsel for the will going into Probate, which, being objected to, an adjournment was made. The ground set up by the contestants is monomania.

—A delegation of Israelites from Philadelphia has arrived in Washington, to wait on the President with a memorial from their co-religionists in relation to the Mortara case. The Rev. Isaac Leeser is the principal of them.

The editor of the Courier & Enquirer, in measuring Buchanan's fall, says: "We might, if we indulged in such a propensity, give day and date for transactions, facts, interviews, visits, dinners, conversations and intercourse between the President and the editor of the Herald and a member of his family, which would afford as pretty a mess of scandal as could be desired; and leave no doubt on the minds of our readers in regard to the present intimate personal relations between the President of the United States and the man who two years since he denounced as 'a hyena tearing open the grave of the long-buried dead,' and called upon his friends to "cut off his ears."

—Taglioni is about to open a dancing school, give lessons at ten francs an hour to Paris ladies, and three francs for the same time to ballet-girls. She is said to be poor, in spite of her palaces and her title of countess, and is forced to return again to pirouettes for a livelihood.

—It is said that J. Buchanan Henry, Private Secretary to the President, contemplates resigning his position at the close of this session, and taking to wife the daughter of a wealthy Washington gentleman, and settling in New York to practice law.

—Jenny Lind, Cruvelli, Artot and Frezzolini, are all to sing together at a charitable concert at the Crystal Palace in Paris. Seven thousand performers will take part in this monster concert.

—Queen Victoria skates. We subjoin, as of some interest to the sex, the annexed description of a pair of skates just completed for Queen Victoria:

> In lieu of straps across the instep, each skate is provided with a patent leather boot. These boots are firmly attached by a strip of plated silver to the clogs, which are of satin-wood, highly polished. The skate-irons terminate in front in the appropriate and graceful neck of a swan, and both sides are elegantly chased. The cup that forms the receptacles for the heels is silver-plated, and chased with the design of a rose, shamrock and thistle. The same design is embroidered in white silk upon the black patent leather, to which it forms a pleasing contrast. The size gracefully corresponds to the small foot of her Mejesty, and when mounted on them, 'tis said she looks elegantly.

—The Paris correspondent of the Boston Traveler furnishes, in his last letter, the following in regard to a late visit of the venerable Lord Brougham to Paris:

> "Lord Brougham is at present in Paris. The venerable orator, lawyer, philanthropist, scholar, writer, continues in firm health, although eighty winters are upon him and all his cotemporaries,—Moore, Scarlett, Jeffrey, Sidney Smith, Canning, Peel, Melbourne, Romilly—are in their graves. He had by his marriage with Miss Spaulding but one child, and that a daughter now dead, so he is childless. I like to see these great men childless, for then I am certain the world shall not be pained by the sight of a worthless fellow tottering under a great name which he is unable to bear."

—Mr. Wm. Lee, formerly with Messrs. Phillips, Sampson & Co., of Boston, who is now in Paris, incurred the suspicions of two of the Emperor's secret police, whereupon he was marched off to the office of the Commissary of Police. An explanation followed, whereupon the Commissary apologized for the officious zeal of his underlings, and Mr. Lee was set at liberty. The policemen contended that nobody could wear a hat like that which Mr. Lee habitually wears, without being a Red Republican.

—The Lowell News tells "how an authoress did it," in the following paragraph:

> "Miss Anna T. Wilber of Newburyport, by her contributions to periodicals, attracted the attention of an educated farmer of Ohio, who opened a correspondence with her. At length they agreed to meet at a half-way point, and if their impressions, on seeing each other for the first time, were not agreeable, they would separate again; it otherwise, why—we'll let her tell the story herself:
>
> "I need not tell how an Ohio farmer first had his attention attracted to an occasional contributor to the Eastern periodicals, or what motive first prompted him to address a note of interrogation to said writer, to be followed by mutual questions and replies, till the parties became desirous of meeting, met, and—were married. The annals of romance narrate few briefer courtships, and I may say few more sensible ones. No "meetings by moonlight alone;" no frowns of opposing relatives; no jealousies of rivals, or lovers' quarrels. Past the day-dreams of youth—by the world around termed old bachelor and old maid—we had not yet relinquished our faith in human goodness, or lost the fervor of feeling, that intercourse with the world too often chills. So, having fully made up our minds that we were congenial, and ought to love each other, we met, and did love each other. The experience of three years of married life has satisfied us that the majority of mankind are in the wrong, and we are in the right. I mean to say that we should learn to love mentally and morally first, and personally afterwards."

Miscellaneous Items.

WANTS TO BE A MONK.—The Archduke Charles of Austria has arrived at Rome, with the intention, it is said, of becoming a Capuchin monk.

HEBREW JOURNAL.—A journal printed in Hebrew has just appeared in Lyk in northern Prussia, and has obtained great success both in that country and in Poland. It is called Cammagia, (the Orator.)

COLD AT NEW YORK.—E. Meriam states that the thermometer at New York on Monday noon stood at nine degrees below zero—the lowest temperature recorded there during a period of seventy years.

CATASTROPHE.—The lead mines of Linares, Spain, lately fell in, and buried more than seventy miners, of whom upwards of thirty, at last accounts had been taken out dead.

INDIANA PENITENTIARY FULL.—There are four hundred and eighty-six convicts at present in the Indiana Penitentiary, one hundred of whom the State is supporting in idleness, in consequence of the limited capacity of the workshops to give them employment.

FURRY ANIMALS.—Otters have been caught this season within two miles of Lansing, on the Grand River. Five beavers were killed the other day and a young bear taken alive on the Muskegon River. It would seem that the valuable animals for furs have increased in Michigan since the departure of the red men.—Grand Rapids Enquirer, Tuesday.

FISHERIES.—Mr. J. Granger writes to a Toledo friend, from St. James, Beaver Island, Mich., under date of Dec. 20th, and states that the amount of fish caught and packed there during the season of 1858, was 5,000 barrels, which at $5 per barrel, aggregate the sum of $25,000.

WORKING UP SAWDUST.—The ingenuity of the Parisian Cabinet makers in the Faubourg St. Antoine, has found a use for common saw-dust, which raises the value of that commodity far above the worth of solid timber. By a new process, combining the hydraulic press with the application of intense heat, these wooden particles are made to reform themselves into a solid mass, capable of being moulded into any shape, and presenting a brilliant surface—a durability and beauty of appearance not found in ebony, rosewood or mahogany.

MAINE.—The Legislature of Maine, at a joint convention on Saturday, elected the following Councillors: Almon Lord, Rufus Horton, Geo. Thorndike, Dennis L. Milliken, Aaron A. Wing, Washington Long, and Isaac N. Harrison. Noah Smith, Jr., was re-elected Secretary of State.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—The foreign correspondent of the Evening State of Maine, writing under date of December 14, says: The directors of this ship admit all persons free on board of her until the 18th ult.—then no admittance is allowed, as they intend commencing getting her ready for sea."

Burning of the Steamer Josephine Savage.

On Thursday morning last, the steamer Josephine Savage, plying between New Orleans and Nashville, struck a snag near Tunica Island, about two hundred miles above New Orleans, doing considerable damage to the boat, and making it necessary to land for repairs. While thus lying up, she was discovered by the watchman to be on fire about half past three o'clock, Friday morning. She had on board two thousand sacks of salt, and some one hundred and twenty tons of other freight, all of which, with the boat, was entirely consumed. Everything on board the boat, including the clothing of the crew, was destroyed. No lives were lost. The Josephine Savage was a new boat, valued in Nashville Insurance offices at $31,000, and insured in Louisville for $20,000. She was owned by Capt. O. W. & James Davis, and Mr. Martin, of Nashville.

Wabash and Erie Canal.

The Trustees have come to the determination to abandon the Southern division of the Canal, and to make no effort to repair and open it for the spring trade. Some immediate action by the people along the line and in Evansville is required to concert measures to prepare the canal for navigation the coming season. It is proposed that public meetings be called at all the principal points along the canal that shall appoint delegates to a general canal convention.

Western News Items.

AFFRAY IN LEROY.—An affray occurred at a gambling house at Leroy on Monday evening, which well nigh proved fatal to one of the parties engaged. Two men, named Selman and Jordan, were gambling in the back room of the establishment, when, upon some provocation, which we have been unable to learn (probably Jordan had all the Jacks in his boots), Selman struck Jordan a severe blow on the head with a club. He was for some time reported dead, and a rumor to that effect was current in town yesterday, but subsequent reports say that the injuries are not as severe as at first supposed. Selman succeeded in making his escape, and so far has eluded the officers who were in pursuit.—Bloomington Pantagraph.

MCLEAN COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—This Society, in its list of premiums for the past season, offered a premium of $5 for the greatest yield of corn on an acre of ground, and $3 for the greatest yield of potatoes on one-fourth of an acre. We give an abstract of the reports received from those competing, as follows:

CORN.—Thomas and Wm. Karr raised on one acre of ground, 96 bushels and 52 pounds. O. Barnard, 87 bushels and 5 pounds. Robert Larrimer 70¼ bushels.

POTATOES.—O. Barnard raised on one-fourth an acre of ground 71 bushels and 40 pounds. A. D. Benjamin 67¼ bushels.—Ib.

ELOPEMENT OF A DEPUTY SHERIFF.—Some four or five weeks ago, the Deputy Sheriff of this county, A. R. Town, left this place for Rockville, where he met a citizen of Delhi, taking from his pocket a bundle of papers pertaining to Sheriff's business, with the request that he should deliver them to Mr. Parker, his superior in office. The wish of Mr. T.'s being complied with, nothing more was thought of the affair, as Mr. Town's lady was then at the East on a visit, and the inference was, he had gone to return home with her. But recently, the wife of the truant husband returned home minus man, and reported she had not seen or heard of since she left Delhi. Developments which have come to light of late have established the fact of his elopement beyond a doubt. Gossip has afloat many strange and mysterious tales in regard to the affair. His business was left unsettled.—Delhi (Iowa) Democrat.

BOUND FOR PIKE'S PEAK.—From what we learn, a large number of our citizens are going to Pike's Peak. Some think of starting soon, and going through Iowa, and wait on the other side of the Missouri until grass starts. This would be a good plan, as the road through Iowa is nearly impassable in the spring.

Among those who are certain to go, are the following:

Messrs. Alvah Mansur, Reuben Wells, Manly Darling, Calvin Hitchcock, Charles Fuller and Mr. Kuhns.—Moline Independent.

MOLINE WATER POWER.—We understand the new Water-Power Company are to send a first-class engineer to oversee their work of improvement in the spring. The gentleman selected is one of large experience, having had much to do with the hydraulic works at Oswego, N. Y.

Hon. P. R. Reed, President of the Company, is coming to reside at Moline, and will take charge of the interests of the Company.—Ib.

THE FORT SNELLING SALE AGAIN!—The St. Paul Minnesotian learns that the Fort Snelling speculators have failed to pay up the second installment of $30,000 due to Government, on the purchase of Fort Snelling and its Reserve; and that instructions have been received there to foreclose on their obligations and resume Governmental possession of the premises. It's a long lane that has no turning; and the speculators are likely to be tripped up at last.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.—An orphan boy by the name of Delavan Wilcox, about 15 years old, was found dead in a cistern in the enclosure of S. L. McGill on Tuesday morning last, Jan. 4th, near a stable. John Corbett, Esq., summoned a jury to investigate the cause of the death, and they rendered a verdict of accidental drowning. From the evidence, it appears that quite a number of small boys were engaged in disturbing a singing school in the Son's Hall, and some one of them giving the alarm that they would be caught, as the movement of some one inside indicated a pursuer, they scampered off in all directions, each one for himself. Several of them started to get across the enclosure of Mr. McGill, the deceased among the number, and the cistern being in the track, wide open, with same five feet of water in it, received the fugitive in its cold embrace and drowned him at once, probably. The boys next morning missing their companion of the night before, and thinking perhaps that he was drowned, went to the cistern and found him.—Jerseyville Prairie State, Jan. 7th.

Good Old Age.

We regret to learn from a correspondent, that Mrs. Everett, widow of David Everett, author of those well-known lines, "You'd scarce expect one of my age," &c., is dangerously ill. She may recover, but little hope is entertained, she being in her 89th year.

Mrs. Everett is the only surviving sister of the Hon. Nathan Appleton of this city, and of the late Samuel Appleton. Of that large family of thirteen, they only remain. All lived to a great age. The older brother Isaac Appleton, of Dublin, died at the age of 91; Mrs. Barrett, of New Jersey, 78; Mr. Arron Appleton, of Keene, 83; Dr. Moses Appleton, of Waterville, Maine, 80.—Boston Journal.

Mrs. Rebecca Cutwright died in Upshur county Va. not long since, at the age of one hundred and six years. An obituary of her says:

> She was the first white woman who settled in the valley of the Buckhannon river, coming to Western Virginia when quite young, and living with her husband in a hollow tree, at the mouth of Turkey run, in what is now Upshur county. The deceased retained all her faculties in vigor until the close of her long and eventful life, and on the morning of her decease was carressing one of her great-grand children, when feeling weary, she requested the child "to be quiet, while granny would lie down and sleep." The venerable old lady then lay down upon her bed and "slept the sleep that knows no waking." Her descendants number between four and five hundred.

In addition to the foregoing we have a large variety of Wood Type nearly as good as new. Also a large quantity of Leads, Rules, Furniture, and thirty or forty fonts of nice fashionable Border.

HIGGINS BROTHERS, MUSIC PUBLISHERS, 45 Lake street, still have on hand the largest stock of Musical merchandise kept by any other house in the Northwest. We are sole agents for the celebrated "Model Melodeon," made by Mason & Hamlin, Boston; also agents for Lighte, Newton & Bradbury's PIANOS, with the "Patent arch wrest plank," which is used by no other Manufacturers in the world, and is the most important mechanical improvement. Instead of using iron as most makers do—which gives the instrument a metallic and disagreeable sound—or using wood in the ordinary way—which renders it necessary to weaken the part of the instrument wherein the greatest possible strength is required—by cutting across the grain of the wood, Lighte, Newton & Bradbury's have a method whereby they spring this patent Wrest into proper form by the aid of steam and powerful machinery. A strain of ten tons will make no impression on the arch, when the fibres of the wood instead of being weakened by the continuity being interrupted at short distances, have their natural power of resistance greatly augmented by the peculiar form they are made to assume in the Patent Arch Wrest. Every instrument is warranted.

QUININE SUBSTITUTE,

Or, NERVE TONIC,

WILL CURE

FEVER AND AGUE.

ALSO, YELLOW, CHAGRES AND Panama Fevers can often be prevented by the use of this invaluable remedy. The recipe is from a very celebrated Physician after thirty-five years experience in Hospitals and private practice in New York City, and has been tested in all sections of the country during the past six years with the most wonderful success. In the Western and Southwestern country, where Fever and Ague prevail it has accomplished much by curing the disease as well as renovating and recuperating the system already shattered by the use of Quinine, Morphine and Mercury, or from too free use of the trashy nostrums such as are daily being forced upon the unsuspecting invalid. To all suffering from prostration after disease I recommend and guarantee this Medicine as a perfect tonic. To travellers in unhealthy climates, I would use the words of the well known Captain John W. Munson, now of a Liverpool Packet Line, and many years in the Southern and South American Coasting trade, "I would as soon think of going to sea without a rudder as without the Quinine Substitute."

WEIGH AND CONSIDER.—AN HONEST QUAKER'S ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVES.—"Friends! delay not one moment in using this great and best Cough remedy, HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. As death is very near thee and the sands of thy life are nearly run out it will be to thee the Spring of Life, and thou wilt be restored again to thy family. Thou need not despair for as nearly as thou art gone thy condition is not more hopeless than mine was; and as thou knowest, I have been restored to robust health, as well as thousands of others, whose testimony thou wilt find with the bottles. Think not, because everything thou hast tried has failed, that thou art beyond the reach of medicines. Thou wilt surely not be deceived by this good remedy. Be sure that thou gettest no other medicine."

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD,

COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS,

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and LIVER MEDICINES now before the public.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the causes of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Billious attacks are cured, and, what is better, prevented by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while

One dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera.

Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite and makes the food digest well.

One dose, often repeated, cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel Complaints yield almost to the first dose.

A few bottles will cure dropsy by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

LIVER INVIGORATOR.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

☞ Mix water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

CONSUMPTION & CHRONIC DISEASES

Drs. READING & MEAD may be consulted daily from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M. and from 3 to 6 P. M. for all diseases of LUNGS, HEART and LIVER, FEMALE DERANGEMENTS, and all CHRONIC DISEASES. As these diseases progress rapidly, and often imperceptibly, to a fatal termination unless promptly arrested, an early application is of the utmost importance to all who wish a PERMANENT and SPEEDY CURE. Their system of treatment by Medicated Inhalations, together with constitutional remedies, is entirely different from anything before the public, and they are confident that any candid person will be convinced of its great efficacy by a careful examination of its merits.

F. A. THOMAS & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF DAVIS' PATENT ASPHALTIC ROOFING. (PATENTED AUGUST 24, 1858.)

PREMIUMS AWARDED AT THE LATE Mechanical Fair held in this city. The foundation of this roofing consists of Canvass saturated with Asphaltum, underlaid with Felt paper, or of Felt alone. The covering compound is composed of Asphaltum, India Rubber and Gum Shellac. A new method having been discovered for dissolving Rubber and Shellac, allowing any quantity desired to be used, and combining them with Asphaltum, without the use of expensive and injurious solvents used in all the Coal Tar Cements, which always evaporate and leave the Composition porous and brittle. In this Compound all the volatile matter is removed, entirely freeing it from such defects, and is known to be the most durable material for roofing in the world.

Old Composition Roofs of every description repaired in a permanent and satisfactory manner.

All orders promptly attended to. Orders from the country supplied with the prepared Canvass Paper and Composition, with instructions.

State and County Rights for sale on terms of great advantage to those who wish a permanent business.

Sawyer's Fluid Extract of Bark, an infallible remedy for the Fever and Ague, and the various forms of Billious Diseases, Intermittent, Remittent, Chill Fever and Dumb Ague, having their origin in malaria of very fertile and marshy districts, prepared by Dr. S. S. Sawyer, Druggist and Chemist, and sold by Sawyer, Paine & Co., No. 14 Lake street, Chicago. This remedy is prepared entirely from vegetable substances, and contains no mercury, arsenic, or anything that can prove injurious to the system. Its effects are those of a deobstruent and tonic, well adapted to restore the healthy action of the Liver and Stomach, whose functions are so generally impaired in this class of disease. Quinine and other tonics serve only in many cases to break the chills, but do not remove the diseases of the liver and other organs implicated, on which the chill and Fever depend; hence the usefulness of the "Fluid Extract of Bark," (particularly in regions where Physicians cannot be readily consulted), which contains all the qualities suited to the indications of these maladies. Hundreds of testimonials in regard to the efficacy of the medicine from persons of respectability, have been given to the proprietor—but he does not make use of them as he prefers to have the medicine introduce itself securely by its merits.

Thus another link has been added to its chain of Premiums. The subscriber begs leave to call the attention of the Ladies of Chicago and vicinity to the merits of this beautiful and unrivalled Machine. A few of its prominent advantages over all others are as follows:

1st. It sews with two threads and ties each stitch.
2d. It makes two different stitches.
3d. It will sew backward as well as forward.
4th. It makes two thousand stitches per minute, and sixty-nine stitches to the inch.
5th. The inconvenience of a belt is obviated by the application of a Rubber Friction Wheel.
6th. The nominal price of $30 includes stand and fixtures.

When this Machine was sold at double the price, it was cordially recommended to the public by I. M. SINGER & CO. ELIAS HOWE, Jr. WHEELER & WILSON, GROVER & BAKER, Manufacturing Co. As the best single thread Machine in the market. The price has been reduced one half and its value enhanced by the addition of the Double Thread. An examination of this Machine and its work is solicited as H. Dewing & Co's Boot and Shoe Store, 132 Lake street. I. A. HANCE & CO., Agents. De27 1y:b906

THE WONDER OF THE AGE! THE LATEST PATENT OUT.—NO INFRINGEMENT, BUT AN IMPROVEMENT ON ALL OTHER SEWING MACHINES. (Pratt's Patent.) The Ladies Companion Single and Double Thread Sewing Machines are warranted to do the work of any other family machine and equally well. They will stitch, hem and gather—and can be so adjusted that the work can be taken out, or it cannot. There is no threading of the under needle, it threads itself. They are the simplest and most elegant machine in use. They do not miss stitches, and cannot be got out of order. It is less complicated by one-half than any other machine; there are no springs in it, and are so simple a child can sew with them. They sew with great rapidity and little noise. Every machine warranted. Satisfactory references given. The price comes within the reach of all. The common Treadle machine $25. The Silver Plated, beautifully decorated, $30—all complete. Agents wanted. Communications answered, and samples sent on the receipt of a postage stamp. A good agent wanted for St. Louis. Prices same as in Boston. Cider-Making.

[FROM "BITTER SWEET," BY J. G. HOLLAND.]

Sixteen barrels of cider
Ripening all in a row;
Open the vent-channels wider!
See the froth, drifted like snow,
Blown by the tempest below!
Those delectable juices
Flowed through the sinuous sluices
Of sweet springs under the orchard;
Climbed into fountains that chained them;
Dripped into cups that retained them,
And swelled till they dropped and we gained them.
Then they were gathered and tortured
By passage from hopper to vat,
And fell—every apple crushed flat.
Ah! how the bees gathered round them,
And how delicious they found them!
Oat-straw, as fragrant as clover,
Was platted, and smoothly turned over,
Weaving a neatly-ribbed basket;
And, as they built up the casket,
In went the pulp by the scoop-full,
Till the juice flowed by the stoup-full,—
Filling the half of a puncheon
While the men swallowed their luncheon.
Purer grew the stream from the stress
Of the lever and screw,
Till the last drops from the press
Were as bright as the dew.
There were these juices spilled;
There were these barrels filled;
Sixteen barrels of cider—
Ripening all in a row!
Open the vent-channels wider!
See the froth, drifted like snow,
Blown by the tempest below!

[From "A House to Let."]

THE MANCHESTER MARRIAGE.

BY CHAS. DICKENS.

Concluded.

"Yes, the man whom Mary let in; whom she went up stairs to the nursery to tell you about; whom you came down to speak to; the chap, I make no doubt, whom you took into the nursery to have your talk out with; whom Ailsie saw, and afterwards dreamed about; thinking, poor wench! she saw him say his prayers, when nothing, I'll be bound, was farther from his thoughts; who took Mrs. Chadwick's brooch, value ten pounds. Now, Norah! don't go off! I am as sure as that my name's Thomas Openshaw that you knew nothing of this robbery. But I do think you've been imposed on, and that's the truth. Some good for nothing chap has been making up to you, and you've been just like all other women, and have turned a soft place in your heart to him; and you had him up in the nursery, and he made use of his opportunities, and made off with a few things on his way down! Come, come, Norah, it's no blame to you, only you must not be such a fool again! Tell us," he continued, "what name he gave you, Norah? I'll be bound it was not the right one, but it will be a clew for the police."

Norah drew herself up. "You may ask that question, and taunt me with being single, and with my credulity, as you will, Master Openshaw. You'll get no answer from me. As for the brooch, and the story of theft and burglary, if any friend ever came to see me (which I defy you to prove, and deny), he'd be just as much above doing such a thing as you, yourself, Mr. Openshaw, and more so, too; for I'm not at all sure as everything you have is rightly come by, or would be yours long if every man had his own." She meant, of course, his wife; but he understood her to refer to his property in goods and chattles.

"Now, my good woman," said he, "I'll just tell you truly, I never trusted you out and out; but my wife liked you, and I thought you had many a good point about you. If you once begin to sauce me, I'll have the police to you, and get out the truth in a court of justice, if you'll not tell me quietly and civilly here. Now the best thing you can do is to quietly tell me who the fellow is. Look here! a man comes to my house; asks for you; you take him up stairs; a valuable brooch is missing next day; we know that you, and Mary, and cook, are honest; but you refuse to tell us who the man is. Indeed you've told one lie already about him, saying no one was here last night. Now I just put it to you, what do you think a policeman would say to this, or a magistrate? A magistrate would soon make you tell the truth, my good woman."

"There's never the creature born that should get it out of me," said Norah. "Not unless I choose to tell."

"I've a great mind to see," said Mr. Openshaw, growing angry at the defiance. Then, checking himself, he thought before he spoke again:

"Norah, for your Missus's sake I don't want to go to extremities. Be a sensible woman if you can. It's no disgrace after all to have been taken in. I ask you once more as a friend, who was this man whom you let into my house last night?"

No answer. He repeated the question in an impatient tone. Still no answer. Norah's lips were set in determination not to speak.

"Then there is but one thing to be done. I shall send for a policeman."

"You will not," said Norah, starting forward. "You shall not, Sir! No policeman shall touch me. I know nothing of the brooch, but I know this: ever since I was four-and-twenty I have thought more of your wife than of myself; ever since I saw her a poor motherless girl, put upon in her uncle's house, I have thought of serving her than of serving myself. I have cared for her and her child as nobody ever cared for me. I don't cast blame on you, Sir, but I say it's ill giving up one's life to any one; for, at the end, they will turn upon you and forsake you. Why does not my missus come herself to suspect me? Maybe she is gone for the police. But I don't stay here either for police, or magistrate, or master. You're an unlucky lot. I believe there's a curse on you. I'll leave you this very day. Yes, I'll leave that poor Ailsie too. I will! No good will ever come to you!"

Mr. Openshaw was utterly astonished at this speech; most of which was utterly unintelligible to him, as may easily be supposed. Before he could make up his mind what to say, or what to do, Norah had left the room. I do not think he had ever really intended to send for the police to this old servant of his wife's; for he had never for a moment doubted her perfect honesty. But he had intended to compel her to tell him who the man was, and in this he was baffled. He was consequently much irritated. He returned to his uncle and aunt in a state of great annoyance and perplexity, and told them he could get nothing out of the woman; that some man had been in the house the night before, but that she refused to tell who he was. At this moment his wife came in, greatly agitated, and asked what had happened to Norah; for that she had put on her things in passionate haste, and had left the house.

"This looks suspicious," said Mr. Chadwick. "It is not the way in which an honest person would have acted."

"Mr. Openshaw kept silence. He was sorely perplexed. But Mrs. Openshaw turned round on Mr. Chadwick with a sudden fierceness no one ever saw in her before.

"You don't know Norah, uncle! She is gone because she is deeply hurt at being suspected. Oh, I wish I had seen her—that I had spoken to her myself. She would have told me anything." Alice wrung her hands.

"I must confess," continued Mr. Chadwick to his nephew, in a lower voice, "I can't make you out. You used to be a word and a blow, and oftenest the blow first; and now, when there is every cause for suspicion, you just do naught. Your missus is a very good woman, I grant; but she may have been put upon as well as other folk, I suppose. If you don't send for the police I shall."

"Very well," replied Mr. Openshaw, surlily. "I can't clear Norah. She won't clear herself, as I believe she might, if she would. Only I wash my hands of it; for I am sure the woman herself is honest, and she lived a long time with my wife, and I don't like her to come to shame."

"But she will then be forced to clear herself. That, at any rate, will be a good thing."

"Very well, very well! I am heart-sick of the whole business. Come, Alice, come up to the babies; they'll be in a sore way. I tell you, uncle!" he said, turning round once more to Mr. Chadwick, suddenly and sharply, after his eye had fallen on Alice's wan, tearful, anxious face; "I'll have none sending for the police, after all. I'll buy my aunt twice as handsome a brooch this very day; but I'll not have Norah suspected, and my missus plagued. There's for you."

He and his wife left the room. Mr. Chadwick quietly waited till he was out of hearing, and then said to his wife, "For all Tom's heroics I'm just quietly going for a detective, wench. Thou need'st know naught about it."

He went to the police station and made a statement of the case. He was gratified by the impression which the evidence against Norah seemed to make. The men all agreed in his opinion, and steps were to be immediately taken to find out where she was. Most probably, as they suggested, she had gone at once to the man, who, to all appearance, was her lover. When Mr. Chadwick asked how they could find her out, they smiled, shook their heads, and spoke of mysterious but infallible ways and means. He returned to his nephew's house with a very comfortable opinion of his own sagacity. He was met by his wife with a penitent face.

"Oh! master, I've found my brooch! It was just sticking by its pin in the flounce of my brown silk that I wore yesterday. I took it off in a hurry, and it must have caught in it; and I hung up my gown in the closet. Just now, when I was going to fold it up, there was the brooch. I'm very vexed; but I never dreamed but what it was lost!"

Her husband, muttering something, very like "Confound thee and thy brooch too! I wish I'd never given it thee!" snatched up his hat and rushed back to the station, hoping to be in time to stop the police from searching for Norah. But a detective was already gone off on the errand.

Where was Norah? Half mad with the strain of the fearful secret, she had hardly slept through the night for thinking what must be done. Upon this terrible state of mind had come Ailsie's questions, showing that she had seen the Man, as the unconscious child called her father. Lastly came the suspicion of her honesty. She was little less than crazy as she ran up stairs and dashed on her bonnet and shawl, leaving all else, even her purse, behind her. In that house she would not stay. That was all she knew or was clear about. She would not even see the children again, for fear it should weaken her. She feared above everything Mr. Frank's return to claim his wife. She could not tell what remedy there was for a sorrow so tremendous for her to stay and witness. The desire of escaping from the coming event was a stronger motive for her departure than her soreness about the suspicions directed against her; although this last had been the final goad to the course she took. She walked away almost at headlong speed, sobbing as she went, as she had not dared to do during the past night, for fear of exciting wonder in those who might hear her. Then she stopped. An idea came into her mind that she would leave London altogether, and betake herself to her native town of Liverpool. She felt in her pocket for her purse as she drew near the Euston Square station with this intention. She had left it at home. Her poor head aching, her eyes swollen with crying, she had to stand still and think, as well as she could, where next she should bend her steps. Suddenly the thought flashed into her mind that she would go and find out poor Mr. Frank. She had been hardly kind enough to him the night before, though her heart had bled for him ever since. She remembered his telling her, as she inquired for his address, almost as she had pushed him out of the door, of some hotel in a street not far distant from Euston Square. Thither she went, with what intention she hardly knew, but to assuage her conscience by telling him how much she pitied him. In her present state she felt herself unfit to counsel, or restrain, or assist, or do aught else but sympathize and weep. The people of the inn said such a person had been there—had arrived only the day before—had gone out soon after his arrival, leaving his luggage in their care, but had never come back. Norah asked for leave to sit down and await the gentleman's return. The landlady—pretty secure in the deposit of luggage against any probable injury, showed her into a room, and quietly locked the door on the outside. Norah was utterly worn out, and fell asleep—a shivering, starting, uneasy slumber, which lasted for hours.

The detective, meanwhile, had come up with her some time before she entered the hotel, into which he followed her. Asking the landlady to detain her for an hour or so, without giving any reason beyond showing his authority (which made the landlady applaud herself a good deal for having locked her in), he went back to the police station to report his proceedings. He could have taken her directly; but his object was, if possible, to trace out the man who was supposed to have committed the robbery. Then he heard of the discovery of the brooch; and, consequently, did not care to return.

Norah slept till even the summer evening began to close in. Then up. Some one was at the door. It would be Mr. Frank; and she dizzily pushed back her ruffled gray hair, which had fallen over her eyes, and stood looking to see him. Instead, there came in Mr. Openshaw and a policeman.

"This is Norah Kennedy," said Mr. Openshaw.

"Oh! Sir," said Norah, "I did not touch the brooch; indeed I did not. Oh! Sir, I can not live to be thought so badly of!" And, very sick and faint, she suddenly sank down on the ground. To her surprise, Mr. Openshaw raised her up very tenderly. Even the policeman helped to lay her on the sofa; and, at Mr. Openshaw's desire, he went for some wine and sandwiches; for the poor gaunt woman lay where almost as if dead with weariness and exhaustion.

"Norah!" said Mr. Openshaw, in his kindest voice, "the brooch is found. It was hanging to Mrs. Chadwick's gown. I beg your pardon. Most truly I beg your pardon for having troubled you about it. My wife is almost broken-hearted. Eat, Norah—or, stay, first drink this glass of wine," said he, lifting her head, pouring a little down her throat.

As she drank, she remembered where she was and who she was waiting for. She suddenly pushed Mr. Openshaw away, "Oh, Sir, you must go. You must not stop a minute. If he comes back he will kill you."

"Alas, Norah! I do not know who 'he' is. But some one is gone away who will never come back: some one who knew you, and who I am afraid you cared for."

"I don't understand you, sir," said Norah, her master's kind and sorrowful manner bewildering her yet more than his words. The policeman had left the room at Mr. Openshaw's desire, and they two were alone.

"You know what I mean, when I say some one is gone who will never come back. I mean that he is dead!"

"Who?" said Norah, trembling all over.

"A poor man has been found in the Thames this morning, drowned."

"Did he drown himself?" asked Norah, solemnly.

"God only knows," replied Mr. Openshaw, in the same tone. "Your name and address at our house were found in his pocket: that and his purse were the only things that were found upon him. I am sorry to say it, my poor Norah; but you are required to go and identify him."

"To what?" asked Norah.

"To say who it is. It is always done, in order that some reason may be discovered for the suicide—if suicide it was. I make no doubt he was the man who came to see you at our house last night. It is very sad, I know." He made pauses between each little clause, in order to try and bring back her senses, which he feared were wandering—so wild and sad was her look.

"Master Openshaw," said she at last, "I've a dreadful secret to tell you—only you must never breathe it to any one, and you and I must hide it away for ever. I thought to have done it all by myself, but I see I can not. You poor man—yes! the dead, drowned creature is, I fear, Mr. Frank, my mistress's first husband!"

Mr. Openshaw sate down as if shot. He did not speak; but, after a while, he signed to Norah to go on.

"He came to me the other night, when, God be thanked, you were all away at Richmond. He asked me if his wife was dead or alive. I was a brute, and thought more of your all coming home than of his sore trial: I spoke out sharp and said she was married again, and very content and happy: I all but turned him away: and now he lies dead and cold!"

"God forgive me!" said Mr. Openshaw.

"God forgive us all!" said Norah. "You poor man needs forgiveness perhaps less than any one among us. He had been among the savages—shipwrecked—I know not what—and he had written letters which had never reached my poor missus."

"He saw his child!"

"He saw her—yes! I took him up, to give his thoughts another start; for I believe he was going mad on my hands. I came to seek him here, as I more than half promised. My mind misgave me when I heard he had never come in. Oh, Sir! it must be him!"

Mr. Openshaw rang the bell. Norah was almost too much stunned to wonder at what he did. He asked for writing materials, wrote a letter, and then said to Norah:

"I am writing to Alice, to say I shall be unavoidably absent for a few days; that I have found you; that you are well, and send her your love, and will come home to-morrow. You must go with me to the Police Court; you must identify the body; I will pay high to keep names and details out of the papers."

"But where are you going, Sir?"

He did not answer her directly. Then he said:

"Norah! I must go with you, and look on the face of the man whom I have so injured—unwittingly, it is true; but it seems to me as if I had killed him. I will lay his head in the grave, as if he were my only brother: and how he must have hated me! I cannot go home to my wife till all that I can do for him is done. Then I go with a dreadful secret on my mind. I shall never speak of it again, after these days are over. I know you will not, either." He shook hands with her; and they never named the subject again, the one to the other.

Norah went home to Alice the next day. Not a word was said on the cause of her abrupt departure a day or two before. Alice had been charged by her husband in his letter not to allude to the supposed theft of the brooch; so she, implicitly obedient to those whom she loved both by nature and habit, was entirely silent on the subject, only treated Norah with the most tender respect, as if to make up for unjust suspicion.

Nor did Alice inquire into the reason why Mr. Openshaw had been absent during his uncle and aunt's visit, after he had once said that it was unavoidable. He came back grave and quiet; and from that time forth was curiously changed. More thoughtful, and perhaps less active; quite as decided in conduct, but with new and different rules for the guidance of that conduct. Toward Alice he could hardly be more kind than he had always been; but he now seemed to look upon her as some one sacred, and to be treated with reverence as well as tenderness. He throve in business, and made a large fortune, one half of which was settled upon her.

Long years after these events—a few months after her mother died—Ailsie and her father (as she always called Mr. Openshaw,) drove to a cemetery a little way out of town, and she was carried to a certain mound by her maid, who was then sent back to the carriage. There was a headstone, with F. W. and a date. That was all. Sitting by the grave, Mr. Openshaw told her the story; and for the sad fate of that poor father whom she had never seen, he shed the only tears she ever saw fall from his eyes.

THE GREAT WONDER OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY, PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE. SAYS THE ST. LOUIS (MO.) DEMOCRAT: Below we publish a letter to Dr. Wood, of this city, from a gentleman in Maine, which speaks glowingly of the superior merits of his Hair Tonic. Such evidences must have its effect, when coming from a reliable source. If certificates are guarantees of truth, the Dr. needs no encomiums, nor useless puffery from the press. BATH, MAINE, Jan. 20, 1858. Professor O. J. Wood & Co.: GENTLEMEN:—Having my attention called a few months since to the highly beneficial effects of your hair restorative, I was induced to make application of it upon my own hair, which had become quite gray, probably one-third white; my whiskers were of the same character. Some three months since I procured a bottle of your hair restorative, and used it. I soon found it was proving what I had wished. I used it about twice a week. I have since procured another bottle, of which I have used some. I can now certify to the world that the gray or white hair has totally disappeared, both on my head and face, and my hair has resumed its natural color, and I believe more soft and glossy than it has been before for twenty-five years. I am now sixty years old; my good wife, at the age of fifty-two, has used it with the same effect. The above notice I deem due to you for your valuable discovery. I am assured that whoever will rightly use, as per directions, will not have occasion to contradict my statements. I am a citizen of this city and a resident here for the last fifteen years, and am known to nearly every one here and adjoining towns. Any use you may make of the above, with my name attached, is at your service, as I wish to preserve the beauties of nature in others as well as myself. I am truly yours, A. C. RAYMOND. BALTIMORE, Jan. 23, 1858. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE. Professor Wood—Dear Sir: Having had the misfortune to lose the best portion of my hair, from the effects of the yellow fever, in New Orleans, in 1854, I was induced to make a trial of your preparation, and found it to answer as the very thing needed. My hair is now thick and glossy, and no words can express my obligations to you in giving to the afflicted such a treasure. FINLEY JOHNSON. The undersigned, Rev. J. K. Bragg, is a minister in regular standing, and pastor of the Orthodox Church at Brookfield, Mass. He is a gentleman of considerable influence and universally beloved. WM. DYER. BROOKFIELD, January 12, 1858. Professor Wood—Dear Sir: Having made a trial of your Hair Restorative, it gives me pleasure to say, that its effect has been excellent in removing inflammation, dandruff and a constant tendency to itching with which I have been troubled from my childhood; and has also restored my hair, which was becoming gray, to its original color. I have used no other article with anything like the same pleasure or profit. Yours truly, J. K. BRAGG. The Restorative is put up in Bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium and small; the small holds half a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars a bottle; the large holds a quart, forty per cent. more in proportion, and retails for three dollars a bottle. Commercial and Money Matters.

FRIDAY Jan. 15 1859

MONEY, EXCHANGE, &c.—Exchange is gradually becoming closer; but rates are still steady at 1¼. It is also scarce at St. Louis and Cincinnati an with present prospects rates must advance, unless the supply should unexpectedly increase. The prospect for such increase for some weeks to come is by no means flattering.

Bank discounts as usual are 10 per cent. on first class local paper. Thirty day New York bills would be gladly taken at par to ½ per cent. discount. Gold a drug at 1@1½. Street rates nominal at 1@2 per cent. per month with no first class paper offering.

We call attention to the new banking house of Granger, Weldon & Co., whose card will be found in the appropriate column. Their location in Lind's Block will be convenient to a large portion of our business public. The gentlemen composing the firm come to us highly recommended, and we bespeak for them a cordial welcome to the business and financial circles of the city.

The Cincinnati Gazette of Friday, 14th, says:

The money market remains unchanged, with but a moderate demand, and the supply of currency good. Exchange on the East still becomes scarce, and the market firm at ⅜ prem. for Eastern, though the two institutions referred to in our last continue to supply their customers at ¼ prem. The buying rates are ¼@3 10 prem. New Orleans scarce and little better than nominal at our quotations:

	BUYING.	SELLING.
New York Sight	20@25 prem.	⅜@⅜ prem.
Philadelphia	20@25 prem.	⅜@⅜ prem.
New Orleans	⅜@ ⅜ prem.	½ prem.
American Gold	⅜ prem.	⅜ prem.
New York 60 days	1@1¼ dis.
New Orleans "	1@1¼ "

STATE BANK—BRANCH IN DES MOINES.—On New Year's day the Branch in Des Moines city opened their doors, and commenced the issue of their notes. The latter were of course taken at par. The rooms used by the bank are those formerly occupied as a banking house by Hoyt Sherman & Co.

The following Directors were elected for the ensuing year:

B. F. Allen, P. M. Casady, F. R. West, R. W. Sypher, E. F. Hooker, C. C. Cole and Hoyt Sherman. F. R. West is President, Hoyt Sherman, Cashier, and P. M. Casady, Director of the State Bank. L. B. Sherman is the Bookkeeper.—Iowa State Democrat.

COMMERCIAL.—The receipts of Dressed Hogs were much lighter to-day, and this, with the more favorable weather, tended to stiffen the market. Buyers, however, were very cautious, and did not generally accede to the terms of holders. The sales, however, show a slight advance on heavy Hogs—$6 being obtainable on lots which sold yesterday at $5.87½. Light Hogs were remarkably dull, and except for choice there is no improvement. The receipts of Live Hogs were light, and we hear of but one sale at $5 gross—averaging 260 lbs.

The Provision market was more active, and holders are generally firmer. A sale of 500 bbls City Mess Pork was made at $16; 500 bbls Prime at $11.50. There was a good inquiry for Cut Meats, with a sale of 600 Shoulders at 5⅛c, loose—holders generally asking 5¼c. Lard was firm, with a sale of 100 bbls prime at 10½c.

The Flour market remains very firm, and buyers hold off. Wheat was rather easier, with sales of No. 1 Red at $1.12 for next week, and 3,000 bush. for to-day on private terms—a shade below the above figure. There was a good inquiry for No. 2 Spring and Standard; but buyers would not come up to yesterday's market, and but little was done. Corn was a shade lower. Oats quiet. Highwines firm at 24c.

At Cincinnati, according to the Gazette of the 13th, the markets stood as follows:

Flour was firm to-day, but not higher. Whisky advanced 1c per gallon, with an active demand, partly speculative. We notice this article is dull at Buffalo, N. Y., at 23½@24c. Corn advanced to 78c, and scarce. Oats firm and in demand. The Provision market was, if anything, stiffer, to-day. There is a fair amount of orders in market for Mess Pork at $17, chiefly from the South; but it is difficult to fill them at this rate, holders asking 25@50c per bbl higher. Bulk Pork could be sold to a fair extent at 5½@7½c, but holders continue to ask ½c higher. Lard is unchanged and rather dull. The late advices from Liverpool are rather more favorable for provisions, lard and Bacon being held higher, under the advices from this country. It is supposed, that a considerable quantity of Lard and Bacon will be taken by England on through the spring months.

The Detroit Tribune of the 13th has the following:

Messrs. J. L. Hurd & Co., produce merchants of this city, on yesterday effected sales of 40,000 bushels of grain, comprising 30,000 bushels corn, 5,000 bushels of winter wheat, and 5,000 spring do. We note these as the heaviest transactions that have occurred in our market for some time. The terms have not been made public. Michigan white wheat is now worth in New York, about $1.25, and corn 80@82c. The tendency of both is upward, comparatively little being left in the country.

THE BRITISH CORN TRADE.

[From the Mark Lane Express, Dec. 20.]

With another mild and humid week, which closed on Saturday with a good fall of rain, field work has continued without intermission, and the few growers of Wheat who were late in sowing have had a fine time to get it in. The earliest sown continues to look well, but there are some complaints of that which was later and the few days of sharp frost did some damage to the root crops not sufficiently well stored. Large deliveries have continued in the country. This with open weather, at a period when business always becomes slack, has again been slightly unfavorable to prices, notwithstanding their low range. While the appearance of plenty lasts, holders show little confidence, speculators keep out of the market, and no foreign demand exists. The tide may thus continue low. When, however, Christmas has passed, new shadows may be cast by coming events more propitious to the agricultural interest, especially as labor and the public generally have now long had the benefit of cheap bread. Indeed, some places have already evinced a disposition to hold rather than take less money, and a few have obtained better terms. On the continent the calm has continued, quotations thence bring little more than a repeat of last advices. But at New York, while the wheat trade has become dull for want of an export inquiry, the closing of navigation has somewhat added to the value of flour. This firmness of price in America, which was scarcely expected, leaves the impression that Europe alone must, at present, be considered as a source of supply. And, when once the Government of France has fully adopted the principles of free trade, and ceased its interference with the supplies and prices of corn, speculation may be revived, and a healthy state of trade return.

In floating cargoes there have been only two arrivals since the 9th inst., and the business done has been as follows:—5 cargoes Wheat, viz: one Marianopoli at 41s 6d, one heated Sandomirka at 38s 9d, three of Ghirka at 38s to 39s per qr.; four cargoes of Maize at 25s to 28s 6d, and one of Taganrog Barley at 23s 3d for the Continent.

The sales noted last week were 108,311 qrs. of Wheat at 41s, against 100,416 qrs. last season. The London averages were 2,536 qrs. at 43s. The imports into the principal ports of Great Britain for the week ending the 8th December, in Wheat and Flour, were 80,585 qrs. The total imports in the month of November were 276,007 qrs. Wheat, 236,849 cwt. Flour.

New York Cattle Market.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 12.

BEEVES—The market was well supplied this week by liberal arrivals, but not to such an extent as to overstock it. The receipts are 2,985 head against 2,538 last week, an increase of 450. At the opening there was a fair demand for all qualities of Cattle, but it began to slacken in the afternoon. The quality of the supply was not very good, and there were but few first quality Cattle at market. Prices may be quoted slightly better, the average showing a trifling improvement in favor of this week's market. First-class Cattle being scarce, command 11c, which was paid for some of the finest at market. In common stock there was but little doing, and prices range from 7 to 8½c. Good qualities brought about 9@9½c. Nearly one half of the receipts are from New York State, which, along with Illinois and Ohio, furnishes nearly two-thirds of the whole supply. The receipt at Bergen this week foot up 1,400 head of a fair quality, and a fair business was transacted, the sales amounting to 650 head, at prices ranging from 7½ to 10½c per lb.

SWINE—The supply is liberal but there is an active demand, and sales are making freely at 5¾@6½c, gross. Dressed Hogs are firm and in fair request at 6¾@8c, the latter price for heavy corn-fed, selected.

SPLENDID GIFTS

At 118 Randolph Sstreet,

CHICAGO, ILL.

J. A. COLBY & CO., WOULD INFORM their friends and the public that their Gift Book Store is permanently established in Odd Fellows' Building, between Clark and Dearborn streets, when the purchaser of each book, at the regular retail price, will receive one of the following Gifts, valued at from $1 to $100. Any person sending for Books, and not satisfied with the Gifts, can have the privilege of selecting in its place a $1 25 book, making two ten shilling books for 62½ cents each. Persons can state in their orders if gifts going with each book does not suit, what extra book they will select in place of gift. That is better than any other Gift Book Sale offers in the United States. In sending to New York, Boston or Philadelphia, your gifts are valued from 25 cents to $100. Furthermore, it would cost nearly double the amount of your purchase for express charges.

One of the Gifts of the following schedule are presented to each purchaser at the time of sale:

New Publications.

THE PHYSICIAN'S HAND BOOK OF PRACTICE FOR 1859.

Price, $1.25.

Containing record pages of daily practice; a classified list of diseases, with the symptoms, complications, &c; an alphabetical list of remedial agents with their properties, preparations and doses; a classified list of poisons, with their symptoms and antidotes; and many useful memoranda desirable for convenient reference.

This work the publishers believe to possess advantages peculiarly its own, embracing the conveniences of a Diary with those of a Manual, which serves the purpose of prompter or remembrancer to the physician. The plan for the Registry of Practice is new, and for completeness and simplicity the most thorough of anything of the kind.

TOWNSHIP ORGANIZATION.

Laws of Wisconsin.

"Laws of Wisconsin concerning the organization and government of towns, and the powers and duties of town officers and Boards of Supervisers, with numerous practical formes." The work comprises a compilation of all the statute laws concerning the government of towns and powers and duties of town officers, embracing the subject of Elections, Town and Town Officers, Fences and Fence Viewers, Highways and Bridges, &c., &c. It also contains all the forms of proceeding in every case where a written instrument is required by law, conveniently arranged for ready reference; also copious foot notes, by way of instruction upon doubtful points, with references to decisions of the Courts of Wisconsin and other States, rendering the whole a complete guide for town officers and others interested in this peculiar branch of the Law. It also contains that portion of the statute which relates to the powers and duties of county Boards of Supervisors, with practical forms and notes. Price $1 in leather binding, or 62½ cts in paper covers, Copies sent by mail to any address on receipt of the price.

MILES STANDISH,
ILLUSTRATED.

Just Published, (with express permission and approbation of the author),

A VOLUME OF PHOTOGRAPHS,

From Original Drawings by John W. Ehninger, illustrative of Longfellow's New Poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish."

This work contains eight large highly finished Photographs, executed by Brady, (the eminent photographer) whose name alone will attest their superiority. The special peculiarity of these illustrations is, that they are photographed on a reduced scale from the original drawings, which are thus reproduced, even in the minutest touches, and have all the delicacy of the celebrated paintings upon Dresden China. These impressions are pasted upon heavy plate paper, with interesting cream-colored leaves, containing the descriptive text; the whole bound in large quarto massive Turkey morocco covers, with bevaled and gilt edges. Price SIX DOLLARS.

ESSAYS, FIRST AND SECOND SERIES	2 vols.
NATURE, ADDRESSES AND LECTURES	1 vol.
REPRESENTATIVE MEN	1 vol.
ENGLISH TRAITS	1 vol.
POEMS	1 vol.

Price in Cloth $1.00 per vol.

It is too late to present any labored analysis of the writings of Emerson—too late to set down any eulogy. Whoever loves to deal with first principles, and is not deterred from grappling with abstract truths, will find in these essays a rare pleasure in the exercise of his powers. These volumes are universally admitted to be among the most valuable contributions to the world's stock of ideas which our age has furnished. Every page bears the impress of thought, but it is thought sublimized, and redolent of poetry.

MORTGAGE SALE.—WHEREAS David S. Ogden heretofore executed to Thomas Webb a certain deed of Mortgage, which bears date the twenty-sixth day of May, A. D. 1858, was filed for record in the office of the Recorder of Cook County, Illinois on the 3d day of July, A. D. 1858, and duly recorded in Book 26 of Mortgages, page 104. And, whereas, said Mortgage and the notes therein described have been duly transfered and assigned to Samuel B. Chase, and, whereas, it was provided in said mortgage that if default should be made in the payment of the promissory notes or either of them described in said mortgage, either of principal or of interest, on the days when the same should become due and payable, then the whole of said principal and interest secured by the said promissory notes in said mortgage mentioned should thereupon become immediately due and payable.

And, whereas, two of said notes, to-wit: a note for $443 34, payable to the order of Thomas Webb, and a note for $390.94, payable to the order of Paul Cornell, fell due and were payable on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1858. And, whereas, neither said notes nor any of the other notes described in said mortgage, nor any part thereof, were paid on said day last named, or at any other time, but default has been made in the payment thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the authority given in and by the mortgage aforesaid, I shall, on the nineteenth day of January, A. D. 1859, between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the North door of the Court House, in the city of Chicago, in the County of Cook and State of Illinois, sell to the highest bidder for cash, the premises mentioned in and conveyed by said mortgage to-wit: Blocks fourteen (14), sixteen (16), seventeen (17), and the South half of block twelve (12) in Lyman, Larned & Woodbridge's subdivision of the East half of the Northwest quarter of section eleven (11) in township thirty-eight (38) North, range fourteen (14) East of the Third Principal Meridian; being in Cook County, State of Illinois. SAMUEL B. CHASE.

Chicago, January 5, 1859. ja6 b907 td

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT whereas William Ham did, on the sixteenth day of March, A. D. 1858, make, execute and deliver to the undersigned a Chattle Mortgage upon the schooner or vessel called the Denmark, together with the masts, bowsprits, sails, boats, anchors, cables, tackle, apparel and furniture, and other necessaries thereto appertaining, to secure the payment of three certain promissory notes therein mentioned, of even date with said mortgage, one for the sum of one hundred dollars; one for the sum of four hundred dollars, payable on the first day of August, 1858; and one for the sum of four hundred dollars, payable on the first day October, A. D. 1858, which said mortgage was filed for record in the Collector's Office for the District and Port of Chicago, on the fourteen day of October, A. D. 1858, and recorded in book B of Mortgages, pages 340 to 343. And default having been made in the payment of the last two notes herein before mentioned, I shall, by virtue of the power vested in me by the said mortgage, on Saturday, the twenty-second day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, expose said vessel, her boats, tackle, apparel and furniture and appertenances where she now lies in the South Branch of the Chicago River, to public sale to the highest and best bidder for cash, to make the sum of money now due and unpaid upon the said notes.

MORTGAGE SALE.—WHEREAS James Taylor and Josephine Taylor executed and delivered to the undersigned, Ezekiel Tripp a certain mortgage of the premises hereinafter described, bearing date the nineteenth day of January, A. D. 1858, and recorded in the Recorder's Office of Whiteside county, Illinois, in Book No. Six of Deeds, pages 386 and 387, to secure the payment of two notes of four hundred dollars each and interest of same date, one due in six months, and one in one year from date, and, whereas, the said mortgage provides that if default should be made in the payment of either of said notes, either of principal or interest, the whole should become due and payable. Now, therefore notice is hereby given that, default having been made in the payment of the first of said notes on the application of the holder thereof, on Monday, the thirty first day January, A. D. 1859, at ten o'clock A. M. of that day, at the Court House door, in the City of Chicago, by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, the undersigned will sell to the highest bidder for cash, all the right and equity of redemption of the said James Taylor and Josephine Taylor in and to the south-west quarter of section number nineteen, in township twenty, north of range seven east of fourth P. M., containing 160 acres, more or less, in said Whiteside county, Illinois, to make the amount of said notes, principal and interest, and the costs of said sale.

E. TRIPP.

Chicago, December 31, 1858. de31 b?? 30d

MORTGAGE SALE.—WHEREAS Abner Reeves and John S. Forman executed and delivered unto the undersigned, Van H. Higgins, a certain mortgage of the premises hereinafter described, bearing date the eighth day of August, A. D. 1856, and recorded in the Recorder's office in and for Cook County, State of Illinois, in Book 28 of Mortgages, page 40, to secure the payment of a certain bond therein described, conditioned for the payment of Thirty-four Thousand and Ten Dollars in installments, and whereas default has been made in the payment of a part of the moneys due by the terms and conditions of said bond, to-wit: about sum of Twenty-four Hundred Dollars and upwards. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the fifteenth day of January, A. D. 1859, at three o'clock P. M. of said day, at the North door of the Court House, in the city of Chicago, by virtue of a power of sale in said mortgage contained, the undersigned will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described pieces or parcels of land, lying and being in the city of Chicago, County and State aforesaid, and known as lots numbered one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), six (6), seven (7), twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23), twenty-four (24), twenty-five (25), twenty six (26), twenty-seven (27) and twenty-eight (28), all in block ten (10) of Higgins, Law & Co's addition to the city of Chicago, or so many of said lots as may be necessary to satisfy the moneys now due and unpaid in the said bond specified. The same being a part of the premises described in said mortgage. VAN H. HIGGINS, Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—NOTICE IS hereby given that default having been made in the payment of a certain Promissory Note secured in and by a certain mortgage, made and executed by Alfred F. Wurts, bearing date 17th day of April, 1858, and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the County of Cook, and State of Illinois, in Book 26 of Mortgage, at Page 743, to Geo. M. Gray, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note in said mortgage mentioned on which there will be due on the day of sale, principal and interest, Eight Thousand Thirty-Seven Dollars and Forty-Six Cents. Now, therefore I shall, by virtue of the power in said mortgage contained, on MONDAY, the 24th day of January, A. D. 1859, at the Court House, in the city of Chicago and County of Cook and State of Illinois, at 10 o'clock A. M., sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the following described lots or pieces of lands, together with all right and equity of redemption, situated in the city of Chicago, and County of Cook, and State of Illinois, to wit: The undivided one-half of Lots one (1) and two (2), in Block four (4), Fort Dearborn Addition to Chicago.

STATE OF ILLINOIS, COUNTY OF COOK ss. Circuit Court of Cook County, January Special Term, 1859.

John H. Kinzie vs. George C. Bates, The Illinois Central Railroad Company, and The Michigan Central Railroad Company—In Chancery.

Affidavit of the non-residence of George C. Bates, one of the defendants above named, having been filed in office of the Clerk of said Circuit Court of Cook County, Notice is hereby given to the said George C. Bates that said complainant filed his bill of complaint in said Court on the Chancery side thereof, on the fifteenth day of December, 1858, and that a summons thereupon issued out of said Court against said defendants, returnable on the first Monday of January, 1859, as is by law required. Now, unless you, the said George C. Bates shall personally be and appear before said Circuit Court of Cook County, on the first day of the next special term thereof, to be holden at Chicago, in said County, on the first Monday of January, 1859, and plead, answer or demur to the said complainant's bill of complaint, the same and the matters and things therein charged and stated will be taken as confessed, and a decree entered against you according to the prayer of said bill.

WM. L. CHURCH, Clerk.

Goodwin, Larned & Goodwin, Compl't's Sol'rs.

WHEREAS THOMAS SIM AND MARY S., his wife, on the fifteenth day of April, A. D. 1856, executed their certain deed of trust to the undersigned to secure the payment of a certain bond bearing even date with said deed for the sum of twenty five hundred dollars executed by the said Thomas Sim and payable to John N. Staples in three years from the date thereof, with interest thereon at ten per cent, payable semi-annually, and for which interest Notes were executed by said Sim and numbered from one to six, and default having been made in the payment of interest due on said bond, and the whole principal sum and the second interest note having become due by and at the option of said Staples, and demand thereof made according to the conditions of said bond and deed of trust on application of John N. Staples, the holder of said bond. Notice is hereby given that on the 25th day January, A. D. 1859, at the North door of the Court House in the city of Chicago, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, I shall, by virtue of the power in me vested by said deed of trust sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, title, benefit and equity of redemption of said Thomas Sim and Mary S., his wife, of, to, and in the premises in said deed of trust described, which said deed was recorded in the Recorder's office of the county of Cook and State of Illinois, in book 108 of Deeds, page 313, and filed for record on the 18th day of April, and which said premises in said deed of trust described are known as lots number thirteen (13) and fourteen (14) in School Commissioner's subdivision of fractional section sixteen (16) in township forty (40), North of the third principal meridian.

NOTES FROM HENRY WARD BEECHER'S DISCOURCES Now ready and for sale by D. B. COOKE & CO. 111 Lake street.

Notes from Plymouth Pulpit.

A Collection of Memorable Passages from the

DISCOURSES OF HENRY WARD BEECHER,

With a Sketch of Mr. Beecher in the Lecture Room.

BY AUGUSTA MOORE.

It is not the beauty of Mr. Beecher's expressions, nor the startling and resplendent flashes of his thought that this book will show, so much as his presentation of simple and holy truth, in such guise as never fails to interest and instruct all whose notice is gained. And thousands who cannot be induced to peruse long sermons, will cheerfully read, and undoubtedly remember, the vital truths illustrated and enforced in the following pages.

The volume is a testimony to the power with which the mind from whence it sprung influences other minds, and of the nature of that influence.
